White House to Eject Future Demonstrators

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gave orders today that any future sit-in demonstrators at the White House be evicted promptly regardless of the cause they support.

This decision in the wake of Thursday's sit-in by 12 Negro and white youths, who felt the federal government wasn't doing enough for the civil rights cause in Selma, Ala., underlay still another presidential decision to open the White House to public tours again today. The demonstrators had posed as tourists to gain entry.

Johnson and his aides reasoned that the question of further demonstrations had to be met squarely. They regarded today's 10 a.m. to noon tours as a test.

The decisions were not arrived at easily or quickly, however. The pioneering sit-in group was permitted to remain in the White House for more than seven hours before the last of their number were "walked" to police cruisers and taken to station houses where they were booked on charges of unlawful entry, then released.

This delay partly reflected time consumed in a series of high level conferences which led to what Johnson regarded as a "consensus" decision to evict the youths and take similar steps more quickly in the event of a repetition of such an incident.

Johnson, irritated by what he regarded an improper invasion of his home, debated strategy.

Several key aides were in disagreement from the start, feeling that anyone camping in the White House should be evicted promptly and, in fact, arrested in order to avoid encouraging a default as it were, similar (Turn to Page A6, Column 5)

Two Inches of Snow Falls On Watershed

Two inches of new snow fell overnight on city watersheds and the ski area on Pikes Peak. Roy Knoll, caretaker on the South Slope, said the two inches plus what fell Thursday contained 12 of an inch of moisture.

Light snow continued to fall on Pikes Peak early Friday. The temperature at 9,000 foot Ruxton Park at 8 a.m. was 22 degrees.

Interest Revenue Increase Reported

Changing sheets often increases their life. When sheets and pillow cases are changed before they become too soiled, they will require less strong soaps and less frequent bleaching to make them clean.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's income tax revenue from interest increased by $2 billion in 1964, a gain of 28 per cent over the previous year. The Internal Revenue Service said the number of taxpayers reporting income from interest increased 45 per cent last year. Regulations requiring financial institutions to make reports on interest became fully effective for the first time in 1964.

REVALUATING ULCER FREEZING

The treatment of peptic ulcer by freezing the inner lining of the stomach was started in 1961 at the University of Minnesota. Three years and 15,000 patients later we are not certain whether the method is worthwhile. Dr. Owen H. Wangensteen, pioneer of this technique, continues to have faith in it and believes further improvements will better the results. The procedure requires a special freezing unit that circulates alcohol in and out of a balloon swallowed by the patient. The temperature of the alcohol is minus 20 degrees C. and the balloon remains in place 40 to 60 minutes.

The immediate results often are dramatic in that pain disappears and the ulcer crater starts to heal. Acid secretion is depressed but, within a short time, returns to the pre-freeze levels. With each passing month, more and more encounter a return of ulcer and distress.

Dr. Wangensteen treated more than 600 ulcer victims. After a period varying from 12 to 30 months, only 14 per cent were free of discomfort. But he remains optimistic because all of these patients had an intractable ulcer that did not respond to diet, pills, powders, and equanimity.

They were candidates for surgical removal of part of the stomach or the bypass operation. Only 4 per cent of the group required surgery. Freezing was justified because it is safer than surgery.

On the other hand, the procedure has been abandoned temporarily in many institutions because more and more of the failures ultimately need operation. Freezing must do a better job than existing methods before it can be accepted as an effective remedy for recurring peptic ulcer.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

OVERWEIGHT AFTER STROKE

S. S. writes: I had a stroke 3½ years ago and can walk with a cane and have learned to write again. My problem is that I weight almost 50 pounds too much, due to inactivity. Would it be safe for me to go on a diet?

REPLY

Yes, even though it may be difficult to lose weight because of inactivity.

INFECTION WITH AMEBAS

B. P. writes: I have been under treatment for three months for amebic dysentery. Is this condition curable?

REPLY

Yes. In stubborn cases, it may be necessary to use several different remedies at varying intervals to eliminate these parasites. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on amebiasis.

YOU CAN DONATE

R. S. writes: Recently a relative asked me to donate blood. I refused because I'm taking treatment for high blood pressure. Do you think this is a good reason?

REPLY

No, because loss of blood may help lower a high pressure. If your blood count is normal, removal of a pint of blood should not disturb your equanimity.

Race Conference Is Attempted in Selma Conflict

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — LeRoy Collins, director of the federal Community Relations Service, says he will attempt to meet with a few Selma business leaders today in an effort to establish "common rapport" in this racially troubled town.

The former Florida governor, who canceled a speech at the University of Florida to fly here Wednesday night, said he would also like to talk with John Lewis, national director of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, and Wilson Baker, Selma public safety director.

Collins said he might attempt to confer with Negro integrationist leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The decision to return here was made by Collins following two attempted marches in Selma by Negroes and whites in protest of voter registration difficulties.

Collins said the decision was his own and was made following telephone conversations with Washington and his field representatives here.

"We are anxious to be of any help we can in bringing about peaceful compliance with the civil rights law," Collins said. "We can't do it ourselves, but we may help some of the people here do it."

The CRS director said he would like to see permanent plans worked out which would result in sound race relations.

An Alabama Citizens Committee, established several months ago to promote peaceful race relations, met Wednesday in Birmingham. The meeting was attended by one of Collins' field workers. However, Collins said Selma has no representative on the committee.

"Alabama deserves to grow and prosper," Collins said. "If we can be helpful in achieving that and in promoting sound racial efforts, we want to do it."

Collins said he would return to Washington today if normalcy returns to Selma.

"I think that's what all the people want," he said.

Collins reportedly was the key federal negotiator in the Tuesday token march by about 2,000 civil rights demonstrators. The marchers, led by King, turned back after walking a short distance beyond the Alabama River bridge toward Montgomery. King said Collins handed him "something of a route" after consulting with Al Lingo, Alabama public safety director, and Dallas County Sheriff James G. Clark. The demonstrators did not attempt to pass police lines.

Former Governor Stratton Is Acquitted

CHICAGO (AP) — The Stratton family talked about pride, prayers, appreciation and politics Thursday after the acquittal of former Gov. William G. Stratton on income tax evasion charges.

"It's been a long time," Shirley Stratton, his wife, said of the trial. "I've been sustained by tremendous faith in my husband and in God. I can't tell you how strongly I feel for the jury system of this country."

"My son has been equal to many things," said Zula Stratton, his mother. "And I think this (the trial) showed he could take it."

"We live in a pretty wonderful country," said Stratton, 51, who was Republican governor of Illinois from 1952 to 1960. "If you are right, the jury will go along with you."

The comments, and many more, came from the happy family after a U.S. District Court jury of six men and six women acquitted Stratton.

Stratton was accused in a four-count indictment of evading payment of nearly $41,000 on allegedly unreported income of $83,000 from 1957 to 1960, his second term in office. The trial began Jan. 4. The case went to the jury late Wednesday.

Stratton, defeated for a third term by Gov. Otto Kerner, talked with newsmen after the jury's verdict.

"I want to thank all the people in all walks of life who have kept my morale up, even as I walked in the streets," Stratton told newsmen after the verdict, tears welling in his eyes.

"I have no malice toward anyone," he said. "I felt I took the right stand. It was worth fighting for."

Stratton, at ease during the hours of deliberation, appeared tense when the jury walked into the courtroom of Judge Hubert L. Will shortly before noon Thursday to deliver their verdict.

"This is, as they say, high noon," Stratton said in an undertone to newsmen. When the jury foreman delivered the decision of innocent, Stratton, his wife and his mother leaped from their chairs in jubilation.

"Thank you, mother, thank you," Stratton exclaimed as Mrs. Stratton, 77, kissed him. Stratton was kissed by his wife, and he quipped: "I like this. I think I'd like to do this to the jury."

"No man has ever received better treatment at the hands of the press than I did," Stratton told newsmen.

Asked what he was going to do next, Stratton said: "I'm going to go home and kiss Nancy" (his 3-year-old daughter).

"Thank you, your honor," Stratton told Judge Will.

"I am proud of my husband's profession," the former governor's wife said. "There is no more honorable profession."

"I suppose there have been thousands of letters and of all those letters — beautiful ones and encouraging ones — not one, not one, expressed anything but belief in my husband. Many said they were praying for him."

While waiting for the jury to return its verdict, the elder Mrs. Stratton observed: "You know, this is worse than a pregnancy. You can't do anything to be comfortable."

Padres Take To Flying in Their Mission

By ANN CLAUSMEYER

BOSTON (AP) — In South Dakota a priest teaches delinquent boys to fly. In South America a missionary visits his parishioners by plane. In Cincinnati, a priest is building a helicopter.

These "flying Padres" are members of the National Association of Priest Pilots.

"The purpose of the organization is to further aviation in the work of the church, especially in missionary work," said Msgr. Robert J. Sennott, pastor of St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church at Norwood, Mass.

"The club has the backing of almost every bishop, including Richard Cardinal Cushing. In fact last September Pope Paul VI bestowed the papal blessing on the group."

The "flying padres" number 300 and represent 22 religious orders in 39 states and 12 foreign countries.

Msgr. Sennott, northeast regional director of the association, said, "most of the priests learned to fly during the war, on the G.I. bill or from a friend."

The association was founded by two Kentucky priests, the Revs. Robert Wendell and Henry Haacke, who were planning a trip to the West Coast and wanted to visit other priest pilots along the way.

They wrote a letter to Pilot, magazine of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, and were overwhelmed by the response. They asked permission from their bishop to found a club and the charter meeting was held last year in Carrollton, Ky.

Msgr. Sennott said "The Catholic missions haven't made use of aviation until recently. About 170 planes are being used all over the world by Protestant missionaries while less than 20 are being used by Catholics."

The Rev. John Sullivan of Lynn, Mass., who learned to fly before going to Bolivia with St. James the Apostle Society in 1960, said, "Flying is the most practical means of transportation in the missions. A 45-minute plane trip can save four or five days over land."

Morse Blasts Sending Marines to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse says sending 3,500 Marines to South Viet Nam has stripped from the United States its pretense of wanting only to aid the people of the Southeast Asia country.

In a Senate speech Thursday the Oregon Democrat said the Marines are only the first in a stallion of additional U.S. manpower, and that is officially considered the strategic interest of the United States: "will determine the course of the war."

He said he supports President Johnson on most matters, but "repudiates him insofar as his Asian policy is concerned."

Trip on Kennedy Plane Ends on Bus

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A free plane trip with the Kennedy family will never be a status symbol if Blanche Griswold has anything to say about it.

"It spoiled my whole trip. I'm not very proud of being so stupid," she says.

Mrs. Griswold returned Thursday — by bus — from a Florida vacation that began when she mistakenly boarded the Kennedy family plane, the "Caroline," Feb. 22 thinking it was a Mohawk Air Lines plane.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., many Kennedy children and guests were aboard the plane, returning to New York City after a weekend at nearby Lake Placid.

While waiting in New York to continue to Miami, Mrs. Griswold, a widow who sells insurance, received a refund on her Mohawk ticket.

As for her bus trip home, Mrs. Griswold said: "I thought I'd better stay on wheels to stay out of trouble."

TO PAY MORE

TURIN, Italy (AP) — By the end of the year, rich Roman Catholics in the Piedmont region will pay their priests no more than the poor will for wedding and funeral rites.

Baptisms will be free for all, and no charge for weddings and funerals will be made for those who can't pay.

Navy May Use Gun Boats in Viet Nam

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — The Navy isn't saying where it plans to use some heavily armed gunboats it is having built here, but their shallow draft suggest possible use in Viet Nam or other Southeast Asian trouble spots.

The last two of an order of 10 of the 36-foot, steel-hulled boats were scheduled for delivery to the Navy at Seattle today by the Peterson Boat Building Co.

The Navy has ordered 24 more, with deliveries to start at a rate of two per month in June.

The craft draw only 3 feet 8 inches of water. They mount twin .50-caliber machine guns on turrets fore and aft and single .30-caliber machine guns on each side.

Fallout From Red China Is Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of University of Arkansas scientists reported today they picked up evidence of fallout from Communist China's first atmospheric nuclear blast 10 days after the explosion was set off Oct. 26.

The radioactive debris settled in rain water collected at their fallout lookout station atop the chemistry building at Fayetteville, the scientists reported in "Science," the official weekly of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

They said fallout mixed with radioactive debris still drifting down from the stratosphere from Soviet and U. S. atmospheric tests conducted before the limited test ban treaty. China is not a signatory.

The Arkansas researchers could distinguish new fallout from old by means of short-lived isotopes.

They estimated the Chinese blast accounted for only a small per cent of the total fission products found in the rainwater.

Hunting and Fishing

By DICK MOORE

A spring gobbler season for Colorado shotguns will be determined by the Game, Fish and Parks Commission at its regular meeting this month in Denver.

Apparent anathy on the part of the hunting public has raised some questions as to the advisability of continuing the spring turkey season started last year for the first time.

The commission, which is charged with the setting of hunting seasons, will be called on to determine, at the meeting this month, if this early turkey season should be continued again this year.

In effect, the spring season gives hunters three turkey seasons during the year, since there are usually two different seasons in the fall, one in October and one in November.

The purpose of the spring season is to help harvest the excess of tom turkeys, especially the older, wiser birds, that are hard to find and catch up with during the fall seasons. Since the hens are usually nesting in the spring of each year, it is only the male turkeys that the hunter will see moving about.

Although only a few turkeys were harvested last year during the initial spring season, it is felt that with a continuation of the early program hunters will get more accustomed to this different type of hunting, and acquire the necessary skills to bring about a realistic and effective harvest of these surplus birds.

The spring gobbler season can become an effective method of game management and can bring about a more efficient use of this wild turkey resource.

If all the fish that were stocked in Colorado waters in 1964 by the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department were laid end to end, they would reach from Denver to San Francisco.

A total of 1283 miles of fish of all species were placed in Colorado fishing waters by the fish division of the department last year, almost 68 million inches of cold water fish and over 13 1/2 million inches of warm water fish.

In more conventional terms, according to Wayne Seaman, state fish manager, a total of 1,270,890 pounds of fish were stocked, which represents 30,478,758 fish of all species.

Cold water fish ranged in size from two to nine inches for the most part, while the warm water fish were mostly fry averaging about one inch in length.

Since Colorado is predominantly a trout fishing state, the majority of the fish stocked in Colorado waters were cold water species. 1,231,768 pounds of these fish were stocked. Over 39,000 pounds of warm water species, mostly northern pike, were stocked in 1964.

The 1965 stocking schedule, recently printed by the fish division, shows that things are looking up for the coming fishing season.

A discerning naturalist once observed that, "Nature's way is any way that works." And when it comes to replenishing their kind, says Remington's game department, the workings of wild things occur in endless variety, some so weird that you marvel at the continued existence of the species.

Consider, for example, the case with most birds. Fertilized eggs are laid at daily intervals, yet they all hatch at about the same time. The reason is temperature. In the egg-laying process the female is away from the nest for extended periods, and with variable temperatures, growth of the embryo is halted.

But when the last egg is laid the clutch is held at a uniform temperature by the setting bird. Then, and only then, does embryonic growth begin — for the first egg laid as well as the last. And a good thing it is.

Elizabeth Taylor's Father Reported Ill

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor is flying to the bedside of her father, gravely ill in Los Angeles.

"I heard the news at 4 o'clock this morning," said Miss Taylor as she changed planes in London. "They said my father had a stroke and he was seriously ill."

The actress came to London from Dublin, where her husband, Richard Burton, is making a movie. Her direct flight from London to Los Angeles was due there this afternoon.

Miss Taylor's father is Francis Taylor, an art buyer.

Robbers Welcome In Former Bank

STAYTON, Ore. (AP) — Burglars or robbers who want to get into a bank vault will be welcome in a few months. By then it will be a jail.

The First National bank in this town of 2,500 is moving to new quarters a block away. The bank building will become the new City Hall — and the vault will become a four-man jail.

M. Van Dreische, former town mayor who is working on the plans said he likes the idea for the jail. "These 10-inch-thick walls are great."

There are 320 rods in a mile, or 5,280 feet.

Girls, beware lest you worship at the shrine of mere physical beauty. For true beauty is a spiritual matter and persists after death. And it doesn't suffer from wrinkles or stooped shoulders or gray hair or failing eyesight. So use George's yardstick if you wish to recognize people in heaven!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE V-435: George, aged 5, entered kindergarten at the Bradwell School in our area of Chicago.

As our oldest child, he was somewhat shy about pioneering into the strange world of school, apart from his mother and other loved ones.

For this is a tremendous milestone in the life of every child.

Fortunately, his kindergarten teacher was superb.

Although I hadn't met her, George later told us that "Mrs. Schmidle is BEAUTIFUL!" and he emphasized that word "BEAUTIFUL."

With the wisdom of children, George was seeing true beauty.

For his teacher was about 60 years old, short, somewhat plump and with gray hair.

According to a Hollywood Scout, she would not have been typed as a beauty.

But she was a jolly, loving teacher who became a second mother to every youngster in her kindergarten room.

Her smile and twinkling eyes made our boy immediately rate her as beautiful.

For she had charm!

Wrinkles do not mar a charming personality, nor does gray hair or false teeth, eyeglasses or a hearing aid, interfere with it.

Charm is the aspect of our human personality that will doubtless be our I-D card or identification mark in heaven! Maybe we shall change from one "chassis" to another when we graduate from this earthly classroom in God's Cosmic School System.

For our human bodies down here are much like the automobiles which carry us to work or school.

Our automobiles become dented, rusty and obsolete, so we may trade them in or junk them if we have a wreck.

But the real YOU is not the same as that automobile which you drove for years before it was junked.

The real YOU was just the chauffeur or driver! You stepped out of one car and into a new model. Its battered condition did not show on your skin.

And so it probably will be in heaven. For our soul is just the chauffeur of this human machine that we occupy for maybe 70 years down here on earth.

When our body is "junked" at death, the chauffeur (soul) steps out of its human chassis and maybe enters a new model.

But it will be the same chauffeur!

Thus, people who have suffered blindness or deafness or polio crippling, may receive a new streamlined human chassis in the next classroom.

But the chauffeur will be identified by what he takes along with him into that new machine.

This is what we call "charm" or "personality" in contrast to his physical beauty that pertained to the old discarded machine on this earth.

Wrinkles and gray hair and stooped shoulders — these are attributes of the junked human machine we step out of at the instant of death.

That junked car is then interred in the cemetery for human machines, but the chauffeurs will enter new machines.

George died at the age of 26 in a jet plane, but his crushed body was merely his mangled earthly machine. I'm sure we shall recognize George in his new machine in the next world because of his personality traits.

Showdown at University of California Seen

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — University of California faculty members at Berkeley hurriedly called a meeting for today to decide where they stand on the announced resignations of President Clark Kerr and acting Chancellor Martin Meyerson.

The university's Academic Senate late Thursday called the meeting after the university Board of Regents announced they would meet Saturday for a showdown on the long-running campus furor.

Regents Chairman Edward W. Carter summoned the 24-member board into special session in the wake of the resignations and a legislator's complaint that a "state of anarchy" exists on the Berkeley campus.

Carter also said regents would discuss "appropriate control over student conduct" and problems relating to principal university officers.

Faculty members, who were to meet Monday, apparently moved up their session to get on record before the regents met.

The "problems" referred to by Carter exploded Tuesday when Kerr and Meyerson — without prior notice — resigned.

Their resignations culminated more than six months of controversy on the Berkeley campus, where 27,000 students attend.

Kerr, 53, head of the university's nine campuses for the past seven years, and Meyerson, 42, indicated they had taken their "dramatic step" in response to recent "obscenity" rallies which Kerr said perverted freedom into "license for hard core pornography," and the reaction by the regents.

Nine persons, not all students, were arrested on the campus last week for publicly displaying or speaking four-letter words.

Kerr in a statement Wednesday implied the regents, faculty and students all were at fault.

He intimated that he no longer wanted to be the middleman, facing pressure for more discipline from regents on one side and for more freedom and understanding from faculty and students on the other.

Kerr said violators of campus regulations must be disciplined, "but due process must have its due place and faculty committees should not seek to avoid their responsibility."

Symington Denounces De Gaulle Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington accused French President Charles de Gaulle today of using "the crowbar and the hammer to destroy the hopes of Western civilization."

The Missouri Democrat, in a statement prepared for delivery on the Senate floor, said he has been an admirer of the general. But, Symington said, De Gaulle's greatness "is being tarnished by his efforts, at the expense of his friends and allies, to attain world power for his nation."

Symington said, "Gen. de Gaulle has carried his nationalism to the point where he is destroying the shield of NATO, fragmenting Western Europe, participating in the disintegration of the United Nations, and

Four Injured in Viet Nam War Copter Crash

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Marine Corps helicopter crashed and burned today 30 miles south of Da Nang, injuring four crewmen aboard.

was presumed Viet Cong gun fire downed the craft. The chopper, from a company which had been in Viet Nam several weeks, was believed on a supply mission to Vietnamese troops operating against the Communists in a valley south of Da Nang.

A Marine officer said three of the injured men were taken to the field hospital at Nha Trang and the fourth was brought here for treatment. The latter's injuries were said to be serious. Viet Cong guerrillas Wednesday night lobbed a grenade or mortar shell into a Vietnamese position about eight miles northwest of the strategic Da Nang Air Base. One Vietnamese soldier was killed and two were wounded.

The action took place about three miles from the northwest outer perimeter of the defense zone set up by U.S. Marines who landed this week to protect the air base.

In Saigon, the South Vietnamese interior ministry released the names of 385 persons it said had signed a recent resolution sponsored by a so-called "Peace Movement Committee."

The names were published following a cabinet decision to curb the activities of such committees, which it termed pro-Communist movements to misguide and deceive the public.

The government said it would deport a number of persons involved to North Viet Nam.

A ranking U.S. military spokesman said he feels the military situation throughout South Viet Nam has improved considerably in the past few weeks, particularly in mountainous Binh Dinh Province.

The Viet Cong had taken over most of the province in a series of large-scale actions, and Vietnamese and American military men considered the area critical.

"The situation in the hamlets may still be insecure up there," the spokesman said. "But from a military standpoint there has been enormous improvement, largely because we have committed half of our general reserve to the province."

The Mekong Delta south of Saigon has been quiet for weeks after intense Viet Cong activity earlier in the winter.

In Tokyo, French Ambassador Francois Missoffe said in a speech that should negotiations result in a Communist government for all of Viet Nam, there was no reason to believe it would be under Peking control.

Missoffe defended President Charles de Gaulle's advocacy of neutralism for Viet Nam and the other Indochinese states.

When he managed the Detroit Tigers, Ty Cobb once removed himself from the lineup for a pinch hitter—Walter Stewart, a left-handed pitcher.

The feasibility and the need for a United Nations is now being questioned.

Katanga, U Thant's taking over the Cuba missile crisis, the Russians' refusal to pay their assessments, murdering missionaries in the Congo, South Viet Nam, all have added to the disillusionment which began years ago with Korea.

The U.N. did not actually start with Hiss and Harry Dexter White at the Dumbarton Oaks Conference 1944 and the San Francisco U.N. Convention 1945. Earlier Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill met at Teheran and agreed on certain principles which would enduring peace.

The "Big Three" again met at Yalta February 11, 1945. The American delegation included Secretary of State Stettinius, Gen. George C. Marshall, Harry Hopkins and Alger Hiss, with Chip Bohlen to serve as Russian interpreter for FDR.

In the special telephone directory published to cover the private exchange serving the American delegation, President Roosevelt had Telephone No. 1; Alger Hiss had Telephone No. 4.

In order to reach agreement on the voting procedure, President Roosevelt, Stalin, Stalin's interpreter and Alger Hiss retired to a private conference relegating such personages as Churchill, Stettinius and Marshall to the lesser role of waiting outside wondering what was going on. Eventually the select group emerged with the announcement that Russia was to have three votes in the U.N. and the United States would have only one. When others of the American delegation protested the agreement, Roosevelt is quoted as saying, "I know I shouldn't have done it. But I was so tired when they got hold of me. Besides, it won't make much difference." Two months and one day after "they" imposed their way he was dead.

U.S. Urges Arabs To Remain Friendly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it hopes the Arab countries "will find a way to maintain friendly relations with the government of West Germany."

Press officer Marshall Wright was asked to comment on a reported statement by United Arab Republic President Gamel Abdel Nasser that his republic would recognize East Germany if West Germany established formal relations with Israel.

Wright said the United States, Great Britain and France have agreed that the West German government is the "only German government freely and legitimately constituted, and therefore entitled to speak for the German people in international affairs."

Tadd Dameron, Song Writer, Dies at 48

NEW YORK (AP) — The general public didn't know Tadd Dameron — they only heard his music sung by Sarah Vaughn or played by George Shearing, Duke Ellington and Stan Kenton.

Dameron, 48, died Tuesday of cancer.

In a Lutheran Church the Negro pianist-composer had a funeral Thursday.

After a scriptural reading and eulogies, there was a solo on a white piano loaned for the occasion by Duke Ellington.

Then a jazz quintet, led by Ed Rakow, Detroit pitcher, played quarterback for a Bloomfield, Pa., semi-pro team for $5 a game then lost his job to a Pittsburgh Steeler castoff named Johnny Unitas.

TO LECTURE
GRINNELL, Iowa (AP) — Grinnell College, which two years ago heard from former President Harry S. Truman, soon will be listening to his successor.

Dwight D. Eisenhower will serve as politician-in-residence and political lecturer at the college May 13-14.

Truman visited the campus in a similar capacity in the fall of 1963. Eisenhower and Truman are the only living former presidents.

Big Steel Will 'Set Pace' in Union Talks

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
PITTSBURGH (AP) — A company-union progress meeting was called today for U. S. Steel Corp., a pace-setter among the "Big 11" companies now bargaining over a contract with the United Steelworkers Union.

It was the first general session involving U.S. Steel since company by company negotiations resumed Tuesday after a two-month recess for the election campaign for the union's presidency.

It came a day after the top union and industry bargainers met for the first time in what also was billed as a progress meeting.

Steelworkers President David J. McDonald said the meeting was "to plan procedural matters for next week." The industry declined to comment.

The U.S. Steel talks involve nearly 300 people who have spent the past two days in small groups thrashing out plant-level complaints.

Other companies also have been bargaining in small groups over local problems.

The union, which is free to strike May 1, says there will be no settlement until the local issues are out of the way.

Hard bargaining on wages and fringe benefits isn't expected to start until next week.

Thursday's top level meeting brought together the union and industry chairmen of the 11 separate negotiating committees and the Joint Human Relations Committee.

The human relations group is considered the top industry bargaining unit and includes among its 10 members McDonald and R. Conrad Cooper, the industry's chief negotiator.

There was speculation that the industry sought the meeting the May 1 deadline. McDonald would neither confirm nor deny it.

The union has four times refused to extend.

Manitou School Board Approves Small Building

Construction of a small, steel building (A Butler Building) to house Manitou High School's electronics classes was approved by the Manitou Springs, School District 14 Board of Education during its regular meeting Wednesday night.

Total cost for constructing the 32-by-36-foot building will be about $5,700. W. W. Bundy, superintendent of the district, said. Previously the school has used a room owned by Hewlett-Packard but the company announced it would need the additional space next year. The Manitou Springs electronics program is operated in conjunction with Air Force Academy and Cheyenne Mountain High Schools.

In other business the board:

1. Approved the addition of 48 small lockers to the boys' locker room.

2. Voted to co-sponsor the summer baseball program with the city of Manitou Springs again this year.

3. Authorized Bundy to create an additional third grade and hire another teacher for the class if the need arises.

4. Authorized Bundy to purchase library furniture for the junior high school.

5. Approved March 23 as the date for the annual dinner meeting of the principals within the district and the board of education.

6. Was informed that math teacher-football coach Larry Olson and Mrs. Olson, supervisor of the art program, would be resigning at the end of the year. Olson plans to return to Colorado State College for his masters degree.

AFA Man Lauds Local Groups on Selling Science

Colorado Springs scientific and service groups are providing tangible proof of their interest in "selling science" to local high school students.

Maj. Carl F. Davis, associate professor of electrical engineering at the Air Force Academy and chairman of the Pikes Peak subsection, Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE), reports the local Kiwanis Club has donated $100 to support the Colorado College-IEEE Science Fair being held today and Saturday in Olin Hall.

Through support of groups such as the IEEE, the Kiwanis, and other interested parties, Maj. Davis said, it was possible to upgrade the Colorado Springs exhibition to the level of a registered regional fair.

Prior to this year the fair had been a local preliminary exhibit with winners invited to compete in the Bi-State Regional Fair in Denver.

The support also insures a long list of prizes for local winners including sets of encyclopedias and scientific books, certificates from the armed forces, and expense paid trip to a Naval Research laboratory which includes a "steam" on a cruiser.

The local winner in the senior division will receive an expense paid trip to the Science Fair International in St. Louis May 5-8 where he or she will compete for scholarships, trips to AEC and Air Force research facilities, and cash awards.

Youths Snatch Purse Thursday

Two purse snatchers made off with an elderly woman's purse Thursday afternoon in the 800 block of East Willamette Avenue, police reported. The purse contained approximately $7.

Mrs. Alta Edwards, 18 E. Willamette Ave., told police she was walking east on the north side of Willamette Avenue at approximately 3:15 p.m. Thursday when two boys suddenly ran up behind her and grabbed her purse. Mrs. Edwards said she held on to the purse as tightly as she could, but that the thieves were too strong for her. She said she fell into the bushes as the boys were trying to jerk the purse out of her hands, and while she was on the ground they succeeded in getting it away from her.

She described the two youths as white, between 17 and 19, and wearing dark clothing. She said one of them had sandy hair and was wearing a black leather jacket.

Robbery Charge Filed in District Court Thursday

A charge of aggravated robbery was filed against Cleonsum Johnson, 24, Ft. Carson, in district court Thursday and Judge David W. Enoch set bond at $7,500.

Johnson is alleged to have attacked Gordon Alexander Horn, an employee of the Central Greyhound Lines Inc., 225 E. Pikes Peak Ave., Tuesday and escaped with a number of checks and cash, the amounts of which are not specified in the charge.

According to a police report $622 were taken and personal checks totalling $162.

The report also said the suspect was armed with a revolver and that he ordered Horn to lie down on the floor. The report went on to say the defendant was clad in a white raincoat and was seen entering the Joyce Hotel by a woman who told police she noticed the man remove the coat before entering.

The night clerk told police a man with a bundle under his arm had approached the desk to ask for his key and then went upstairs. When police arrested him in his room the revolver and the money were found.

Captain Found Guilty on Two Counts by City Jury

A Municipal Court jury Thursday found Capt. Warren Frank, 35, guilty of resisting police and of drunkenness, charges filed against the Ent Air Force Base officer last Aug. 20.

Judge Allan Asher levied fines of $75 on each charge and granted Frank's attorney Brian Mullett a 10-day stay of execution.

The jury of five men and one woman was out for an hour and 10 minutes after court resumed following lunch. The trial began at 9 a.m. Thursday with Deputy Attorney Roger Hunt defending for the city.

Testimony was that Capt. Frank and a companion were drinking at the Ent Officers Club, and after several hours, drove into town. They stopped at The Embers, the Manhattan Lounge, and ended up at the Red Foxes in the Alamo Hotel.

When a bartender requested that Frank stop being so noisy, the officer went behind the bar. The bartender called police who arrived at the scene immediately. The officers testified that Frank refused to go home, so he was placed under arrest. When he objected to getting out of the police cruiser at Police Headquarters, force had to be used to remove him. The captain also resisted efforts to escort him into the building, and later when he put his hand in Officer David Hadden's face, Hadden slapped him.

Mullett claimed that "considerably more force than necessary was used" by the police officers. He said Capt. Frank had been thrown down "hard enough on the floor to break his watch" and offered the broken watch into evidence.

Hunt pointed out that during Frank's testimony, the captain revealed lapses in memory about the events of the night, and maintained the defendant was "in no condition to remember" much because of the amount of alcohol he had consumed.

When the verdict was announced, Mullett requested each juror be polled. After this was done, he asked the court to consider the length of the time the jury was out.

Judge Asher, after imposing the fines on Capt. Frank, stressed that a "higher degree of care is expected" of him.

"In a way," the judge said, "you're in law enforcement, to a much greater extent, to keep the peace in the world, and a higher standing of conduct is expected of people in your field."

In other action Thursday, Judge Asher levied a $15 fine against Virgil Dixon, 32, 646 E. Maple St., on his guilty plea to a charge of damage to city property.

Gerald Thomas, 51, 1629 N. Weber St., pleaded not guilty to charges of disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, breach of peace, and drunkenness and his trial was set for Monday.

Harvey J. Spencer was found guilty of burglary and larceny by a district court jury Thursday night after approximately seven hours deliberation.

Spencer, 34, formerly of 106 W. Brookside St. was accused of breaking into the Fountain-Ft. Carson High School Oct. 8 and stealing $632 and a $300 movie camera.

Judge David W. Enoch gave defense counsel Richard W. Hanes 10 days in which to file a motion for a new trial. Montell Dunn represented the district attorney's office.

Thieves Break Into Junk Warehouse Here

A junk warehouse was broken into either Wednesday or Thursday and thieves made off with copper wire and tools valued at approximately $225, police reported.

Morris Koskove, owner of Koskove Junk Company, 431 W. Colorado Ave., told police that one of their junk warehouses at 418 S. Conejos St. had been broken into. He said the burglary occurred between 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and 9:45 a.m. Thursday, and that the thieves escaped with between 400 and 500 pounds of junk copper wire. He said they also took $50 worth of mechanic's tools.

Bids Submitted For Welfare Office Furniture

Bids submitted by Davis Office Equipment, 413 N. Tejon St. and Kistler's Office Equipment, 218 E. Monument St., have been accepted by El Paso County Commissioners to furnish office chairs, desks and cabinets for the County Welfare Department.

Bids by four other companies were considered, but rejected by the commissioners on the basis that they failed to meet specifications.

Davis Office Equipment, which will deliver a dozen chairs, bid $86.97. Kistler's bid was $109.65 for desks and $52.62 for filing cabinets. Delivery date is on or about March 29.

Commissioners will open other bids Monday, requested to provide partitions for the fifth-floor Welfare Department. Additional office space will be made in the reception and assembly rooms of the department.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH

COLORADO SPRINGS—FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1965 SECTION B

Chief McKissick Urges Support For State Police Academy Proposal

"The primary purpose of the proposed police academy, as I see it, is to provide a standardization of basic police work throughout the state, and at the same time to relieve individual departments of the burden of taking their experts off the job to train new recruits," Chief Cecil J. McKissick said.

Colorado Springs Police Chief McKissick was speaking to a gathering of the International Footprinters Association Thursday night at the Acacia Hotel, and he was speaking in favor of the proposed new state training academy to provide instruction in both basic and advanced police work for municipal police officers and also to sheriffs and their deputies throughout the state.

The academy, which has long been a dream of law enforcement officials of Colorado, would be located at Camp George West, near Golden, and the price tag would be approximately $313,000. An additional $111,000 yearly would be required to maintain and operate the academy, with all but $45,000 of this being provided by the fee paid by local departments for their men who attend it. And estimated $450 a day would be the total cost for a student at the academy, and this would provide room and board.

A guest at the Footprinters' meeting Thursday was Arthur Sheridan (Tony) Reeder, one of the driving forces behind the establishment of the academy. A retired Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, Reeder has been chairman for the past two and a half years of a governor's committee appointed to study the feasibility of the plan.

"We feel that because of the construction of the new Colorado

National Guard armory on the Camp George West site, now is the time to build the academy," said Reeder. "By building the academy as an adjunct to the armory, which will be financed almost entirely by the federal government, we can save the state a tremendous amount of money and at the same time fulfill, if not all, at least many of our needs," he added.

The need for an academy was brought home forcefully by Chief McKissick, who described his own learning experiences as a beginning police officer. "When I joined the force in 1935, you learned by watching the old-timers do their work, and their attitude towards instruction was 'I know all about it, and it's up to you to find it out.' Some of the experienced men were helpful," he said, then added, "but most of them figured you were just a rookie and should be treated like one. My first day on the job they gave me a gun and a badge and a uniform that was too small, and I felt like a Keystone Kop."

Chief McKissick then went on to explain that it costs approximately $2,500 to train 10 new men locally. "The cost in actual money is not nearly that high," he explained, "but the man-hours we lose because experts have to leave their work while they're instructing runs the cost up." He then added that it costs the same amount to train just two or three men, since the experts still have to take the same amount of time to teach a small group as a large one.

"The advantage of having an academy," he said, "lies in the fact that as soon as we've hired a man we can send him to take the basic course without having to lose any of our own men because of instructional demands."

Reeder explained that if the proposed academy goes through (and coincidentally there was a rumor at the meeting that the bill to provide the money for the structure was reported out of a State Senate Finance Committee with a favorable recommendation Thursday afternoon) facilities would be provided to train up to 72 men at a time. "There will be a basic course of 28 days, and also intensive, supervisory, and specialist courses."

Hospital Staff Members Will Attend Meeting

Two staff members from St. Francis hospital will go to the 37th annual Mid-West Hospital Association convention, March 17-19, in Kansas City.

The following hospital employees will attend specialized sessions in their respective fields: Clement E. Buscher, business manager, and Mrs. Alice Gash, medical record librarian.

The roster of outstanding speakers includes Ronald D. Yaw, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the American College of Hospital Administrators; Stanley A. Ferguson of Cleveland, immediate past president of the American Hospital Association; Dr. Edward T. Auer, professor of psychiatry at St. Louis University School of Medicine, St. Louis; and Rev. Dr. Paul B. McCleave, director of the American Medical Association's department of medicine and religion, Chicago.

More than 5,000 hospital representatives from seven states, Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Wyoming, are expected at the convention.

for from seven to 14 days," he said.

"If you don't believe we need the academy," Reeder said, "think of it in these terms. When you hire a policeman, you usually take some young, healthy man, give him a badge and a gun, the two most dangerous articles you can give anyone, and then send him out to enforce the law. He knows absolutely nothing about law enforcement, and as soon as he makes a mistake, he and the department are crucified." Reeder added that "no one would hire someone to even dig a ditch for them on those terms, so why should people put up with it when it concerns policemen, who are hired for the purpose of protecting everyone's life and property?"

Reeder emphasized that the academy is a vocational, and not an academic, training ground. "You can be very sure that the instructors at the academy will have to have a very firm and extensive background in law enforcement. We will also probably have guest lecturers from the academic world to provide a basic understanding of such things as human psychology, but for the most part our people will be professionals in law enforcement."

"In the complex world we live in," continued Chief McKissick, "it is imperative that our men have a basic understanding of the rights of everyone, and of the laws that govern us all. If they don't have this basic understanding, how in the world can they protect you? Our men are professionals, and they must look upon their work as a profession and not just a job. To be able to do this, they need all the training we can give them."

During the meeting, District Attorney Bob Russell made a motion that the Footprinters "Strongly endorse the need for a state academy, and also recommend that the Colorado State Legislature pass the motion to provide for one immediately."

Before the motion was voted upon, someone in the audience suggested that "immediately" smacked of a demand, and not a request. Russell quickly added "I will amend 'immediately' to read 'as soon as possible.'" The motion was then passed.

Speaker Discusses Vision, School Failure at Meeting

"One-third of the children in every school grade fail," said Dr. Elmer Pickett, an optometrist from Englewood, at the Thursday meeting of the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club at the Acacia Hotel.

Dr. Pickett attributed much of this failure to the student's lack of vision. Vision, he explained, is a composite of four factors: "anti-gravity" knowledge, knowledge about gravity and ways to push against it, which helps a person orient himself; location, for which the eyes are the primary source of information; identification; and language, which makes possible a sort of shorthand reference to the many characteristics which objects have, in other words, a name or label.

"There are many youngsters with a shrunken-up understanding," said Dr. Pickett. A deficiency in any of the four areas affects the others, he added.

In the development of the child, the speaker said, the child first perceives objects on one side of the body, then on the other, and finally, through the process of "reciprocal interweaving," manages to combine impressions from both sides of the body.

The first primary position is that with "the belly to the floor," Dr. Pickett continued. In the second position, the baby pushes himself up enough to look from one side to the other. In the third, he pulls himself along, and in the fourth, he crawls. In the fifth position, he manages locomotion without the use of his hands.

Eighty per cent of information comes from the eyes, but "the hand teaches the eye how to see," said the speaker. Then the child learns the appropriate word, and "can do the whole activity with the eye alone."

When a child is about 18 months old, said Dr. Pickett, he begins to look for a way to make a mark. Too often, he continued, this brings forth a "No" from a squashing standpoint, rather than a "No, don't scribble on that wall. Come and scribble on this wall." A chalk board, he added, is a good place on which to encourage scribbling.

The child first scribbles, then makes a vertical line, then a horizontal line, and finally a circle. This process of development, said Dr. Pickett, covers the period from about one and one-half years to three years. Then comes the ability to make two crossed lines, then a square, then a triangle, and, at about four, a rectangle. At about five, the child can draw a rectangle which can be split up into different figures. Next comes a horizontal diamond, then a vertical one. Finally the child learns how to make upper case letters, then lower case letters, then cursive writing.

Dr. Pickett, who was speaking in regard to "Save Your Vision Week," also distributed a picture to illustrate the need for a previously learned pattern in interpreting visual data, and pulling the figure out of the background.

George Ward introduced new member Art Cook. Club Pres. Dr. John Ordeahl was in charge of the meeting, and introduced the speaker.

ROYALS TO HOST

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The Cincinnati Royals, 5 1/2 games ahead of third-place Philadelphia, will host the first game of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division semifinal playoffs March 24 if they remain in second place.

Walter Eisenberg conducted one of the most significant concerts of the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra, Thursday night. Palmer auditorium was filled to overflow. The music of what can rightly be called an "international" concert, will be broadcast on European radio stations, and will be heard by millions of listeners throughout Europe, and even behind the iron curtain.

It is significant for Colorado Springs, also, that through this medium of culture, more people will probably hear about this city and its Symphony orchestra and conductor than could normally be reached by a gigantic publicity campaign.

It proves once again, as it has proven in some other cases (such as the Shakespeare festival in Canada) that culture, be it music, theatre, or one of the other arts, can be a tremendous booster for a city and its cultural activities, not only for national, but even international recognition.

The concert had the international flavor, since an American orchestra played music from Latvia, the Latvian Rhapsody by Timothy Fetter, from the German-speaking segment of Europe, namely Brahms and Mozart; from France, with Ravel, and also featuring Israel, with the appearance of the fine young violinist Shmuel Ashkenasi, a rising star in the concert field.

The concert opened with the Latvian Rhapsody, in which Timothy Fetter used folk material from Latvia. There are two facets to this work: It uses folk melodies which are pleasing even to a modern audience, interpreted in a traditional musical idiom, avoiding "modernistic" discord - for - discord's sake; undoubtedly this kind of treatment is a favorite one with audiences, especially where it concerns the presentation of folk songs and dances from an interesting European ethnic group. And secondly, the composition, which shows the composer's skill in instrumentation and organization, is not merely a potpourri of different songs and dances; instead it is a composition with a well-organized form, providing musical tensions, release, and tension-and-climax, which skillfully organizes the various portions of the material into a dramatic musical work, of particular suitability as an opening number for a symphony concert. The Latvian Rhapsody starts out with vigor, and through a series of developing steps in which the folk material is placed with good musical effect, it then builds up to

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — When Barry Goldwater promised in July, 1964, that if elected President he would do something about "violence in the streets," there was a concerted Democratic Party effort to snicker at his injection of the crime issue into the campaign.

Barry's opponents said at the time that he was in effect proposing a federal war on crime that could only be made effective by "police state" methods which would be most inconsistent with his stand for states' rights.

President Johnson now, more than seven months after Goldwater posed the issue, has sent Congress his crime message, which generally attacks the national problem the same way the GOP nominee proposed it be tackled originally.

LBJ recognizes that "crime has become a malignant enemy in America's midst" and "crime is no longer merely a local problem."

There isn't too much difference between what the President is now saying and what Goldwater said in his acceptance speech on July 16 at the GOP San Francisco convention.

In that July speech, Goldwater referred to "the growing menace to personal safety, to life, limb and property, in homes, churches, playgrounds and places of business, particularly in our great cities."

It is worth recalling at this time that a week after the GOP candidate pulled up the "violence in the streets" issue, he and Johnson had a formal White House meeting. The July 24 session was brief — a scant 16 minutes. The two could not get together on the main purpose of the meeting — Goldwater's effort to eliminate the civil rights issue from the campaign.

JOHNSON RESPONDED — FLIPPANTLY

Afterward the President was asked if he was "willing to take on" as a campaign issue Goldwater's views about increased lawlessness and violence in the streets of big cities.

LBJ was at his flippant best. "Well, I am against sin I am against lawlessness, and I am very much opposed to violence," he replied.

And, let it be said, that was pretty much the same disdainful attitude of the Democratic high command to the crime issue Goldwater had tried to raise.

There were, to be sure, a few sweeping generalities to make it clear to the voters that the President was not on the side of crime. In his own acceptance speech on Aug. 27 at Atlantic City, Johnson took the precautionary course of touching jointly on the subject, so that Goldwater could not accuse him of shutting his eyes to the problem.

"I believe," the President told the Democratic convention "that every man and woman in this room tonight joins me in saying that in every part of this country the law must be respected and violence must be stopped."

WHY THE DEMS DIDN'T LAND A HAYMAKER

And Johnson added that "wherever local officers seek help, or federal law is broken, I have pledged and I will use the full resources of the federal government."

Why was there during the 1964 campaign no sharp rebuttal of Goldwater's effort to make political hay out of the wave of increased lawlessness? He obviously had in his own frank, if naive, way left himself wide open to partisan attack by suggesting that the administration was not taking the lead in combatting the crime wave. It was certainly possible for Democrats to suggest that while attacking the size of the federal bureaucracy on one hand, he was on the other proposing that federal agencies, including the FBI under J. Edgar Hoover, should take over new law enforcement chores when states and communities could not cope with crime problems.

But the Democrats basically wanted no part of the crime issue raised by Goldwater, because he had coupled it with his issue of "mortality in high places."

In his acceptance speech itself, the Republican presidential candidate said that contributing to the "violence in our streets" was the "corruption in our highest offices."

"Where examples of morality should be set," he added, "the opposite is seen. Small men, seeking great wealth or power, have too often and too long turned even the highest levels of public service into mere personal opportunity."

LINKED CRIME IN STREETS TO BAKER ISSUE

And in his Prescott, Ariz., speech of Sept. 3, which formally opened his campaign, Goldwater mixed an attack on the Democratic Administration for the "shadow of scandal over the White House" with a charge that it was condoning violence in the streets.

The increase in crime, he charged, reflected the "gray sickness of our nation's spirit at the knowledge or corruption in high places."

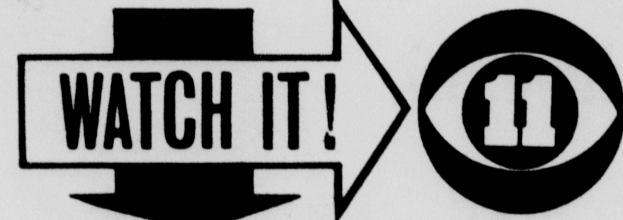

On another issue raised by Goldwater during the campaign, the Johnson Administration is also now at long last, pretty well in agreement. This concerns our Viet Nam policy. Six months ago the Republican nominee was accused by Democrats of being "trigger happy" for proposing a tougher policy in Southeast Asia.

What did Goldwater have to say about Viet Nam during the election contest? That "we are at war" there but that the administration refused to admit it.

"This nation," he said in one speech, "must back up its resolve with whatever manpower, equipment and weaponry it may take to stem the Communist advance in Laos and Viet Nam."

That is almost exactly what Johnson is now doing.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Our son is in high school and is a good student. He has become an excellent athlete and has been offered scholarships by several universities. He is a good Christian boy but we wonder about the possibility of his losing his Christian spirit in that field. —A. H.

ANSWER: I would have no fear of his loss of faith. He would be as likely to lose if he were not an athlete, maybe more so! Jesus, his Master, had the most perfect physique the world has ever seen. He would have been the greatest athlete of all time had sports been organized then as now. I would encourage your son to take whatever place he may win in athletic competition. Pray that he will carry with him his Christian spirit as many other superb athletes have done. They are Christ's leaven in the athletic community. He will find that his Christianity will command full respect of his team mates and competitors. While many of his colleagues will not be Christians, yet all of them hold to Paul's motto: "Quit you like men; Be strong."

Promotion of Cattle Industry Proposed

DENVER (AP) —Colorado's cattle industry would be promoted by a new beef board under a bill offered in the State Senate Tuesday by Sen. Roland Mapelli, D-Denver, a meat wholesaler in private life.

An eight-member board would be appointed by the governor to conduct the program and would be financed by a 5-cent charge on each head of cattle marketed in the state.

In addition to promoting the industry, the board would conduct research.

Two of the board members would be cattle raisers, two would be feedlot operators, two would be processors, one would be a dairyman and one would be a beef products processor.

House Passage Predicted for Medicare Bill

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee begins voting today on the language of a comprehensive health care bill for the aged. House passage in about two weeks is predicted.

The forecast as passage was made Wednesday by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who said he hopes the committee can make its essential decisions by Friday.

This would permit House action during the week of March 22. Mills told members of the Senior Citizens Golden Ring Council.

Mills withheld details of the draft legislation but confirmed in general terms reports of a multifaceted bill on which a majority of the committee had agreed informally.

"I am thoroughly convinced that what the committee will report in the next few days and the House will pass a few days thereafter will provide a more complete solution of the problems people face — not exclusively those over 65 — than any other program suggested to us," he said.

Mills said the draft bill includes the basic administration proposal, a hospitalization plan financed by a pay-roll tax, also an additional plan for further health expenses, an increase in the Social Security old-age payments, and a broadening of the existing state-federal programs for health care of indigent and low-income persons.

The reference to benefits for some under 65 apparently referred to this part of the package, which could include health care of dependent children.

President Johnson sent Wednesday's meeting a message that "the long debate is drawing to a close. There is going to be a program of health insurance for older people in this country."

Date-Line

By Ele and Walt Dulaney

If you can understand his confused feelings and keep smiling at him, in time he may feel comfortably enough with you so that you can be true friends once more. — Ele and Walt.

It's kite season in our hometown, and in the last few days we've seen several youngsters flying kites with semi-metallic string. If such string tangles with an exposed power-line, it may be PFFT! for the youngsters at the other end.

The children in your neighborhood are too young to read our column, but you can pass the warning to them. Don't scold them, just explain the danger of electrocution. Perhaps you might even take time to escort them to the store for non-metallic cord. Can do?

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm 13 and have an inferiority complex. Because of this, I don't have many friends at school. I'm trying hard to overcome this, but I'm not making much progress. After sitting in the background at school so long, how can I get into a crowd? I really need HELP! — Mr. No Confidence.

Dear Mr. No: The best way to lose an inferiority feeling is to become superior at something. Pick a special interest (such as building models, raising pigeons, carving, tumbling, drawing, weight lifting, etc.) and work at it until you're truly expert. Then you'll have something interesting to talk about and share with others, and can bid good-bye to that feeling, which really isn't an "inferiority complex." People with the "complex" act as if they were superior.

If you want to belong to the crowd instead of going solo, join a Scout troop, church fellowship group or hobby club. Once you're accepted as a member, volunteer for committee work and go all out to show your heart's in the group. In time you'll have a warm circle of pals. — Ele and Walt

Dear Ele and Walt: How can I be good friends with my "ex" boy friend again? When we broke up it was by mutual agreement, and we promised each other that we'd always be close friends. But now when we run into each other, he hides his head or makes a funny face. — Wants to be Friends

Dear Wants: After you've been so close, it's difficult to start acting casually toward each other. Your "ex" ducks his head or grimaces because he doesn't know what to say to you.

Dear Walt: If you're at a social, and you see a girl you'd like to dance with, but she's sitting with another boy, can you ask her to dance? Keep in mind that you don't know the other boy, and the girl looks very bored. The guys in our "Y" club are waiting for your answer. — The Counts

Dear Counts: In the interest of not getting slugged by an angry escort, it's wise to ask the boy's permission before you invite his date to dance. If he gives his OK, ask the girl to dance. Then return her to her partner after the dance, and thank both of them.

May I P. S. a point now? You know how you'd feel if someone attempted to steal your date, so please don't try to make off with the "bored" lass. Bored or not, it's her duty to stay with her date for the duration of the evening. — Walt (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

Man Insists on Getting Right Birth Certificate

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Spencer Furr is all man but legal records say he is a woman. Furr has been married 13 years, served in the Army, drives for Queen City Trailways and chews on a fat black cigar. He was born Feb. 15, 1922 in Stanly County, N.C.

Or was he? When he went into the Army in the early 1940s, he discovered that according to records he was a girl, born in 1923.

Furr believes the mistake was made by the doctor who delivered him in 1922. The doctor, reasons Furr, probably forgot to send in the certificate for almost a year. When he did, he forgot whether he had delivered a boy or a girl.

He has compiled evidence of his masculinity and age — his mother's word, an old family Bible, school records indicating he started to school in 1928, and a 1930 census report stating he was an 8-year-old boy.

Furr said the mistake has been corrected in Albemarle County records but not by the state, though he has a stack of letters several inches thick showing his efforts to straighten things out.

"I guess I'll write some more letters," Furr sighed. "Honestly, sometimes I feel like dropping the whole thing it's such a mess."

"But I do feel everybody needs a correct birth certificate. And I want mine," he said.

He laughed when he recalled his Army tour.

"In the Army," he said, "I had a woman's job anyway. I was a cook."

Day Nursery Receives Flag from Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Lt. Marion L. Willis Post 101, Veterans of Foreign Wars, recently presented a new 50-star American flag to the Colorado Springs Day Nursery for use on its outdoor flag pole.

This is one activity in the Auxiliary's Americanism program, under the direction of its Chairman, Mrs. Pauline Peabody.

The formal presentation was made by Mrs. Goldie Whitmore, Patriotic Instructor, followed by an appropriate verse read by Mrs. Peabody. Pamphlets of flag etiquette which are distributed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, were presented by Mrs. Ethel Breeden, Auxiliary President.

The children who participated were Kathy Hickey, Stacey Rhoads, and David Abeyta, who led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The flag was accepted for the Day Nursery by Mrs. J. M. Caldwell, Chairman of the House Committee of the Board of Directors.

The Colorado Springs Day Nursery is an agency of the United Fund organization. Mrs. Jane E. McDonald is the Nursery's Director.

Also attending the ceremony were Mrs. Willa Brown, Auxiliary Senior Vice President, Mrs. Edna Smith, Mrs. Pauline C. Hiddleston and Mrs. Mary Andrews.

Hadassah Gives Book To Library

In celebration of both National Jewish Book Month and National Jewish Music Month, the Colorado Springs Chapter of Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, made its annual presentation to the Public Library. The presentation of "Voices of a People," the Story of Yiddish Folk Song by Ruth Rubin was made by Mr. Herbert G. White, president and Mrs. Victor Goodstein, second vice-president of the organization. Mrs. Stanley Reed, chief librarian, accepted for the Public Library.

Ruth Rubin is recognized both in the United States and abroad as a leading authority in the field of Yiddish folk songs. For more than two decades, she has done research in secular Yiddish folk songs of Eastern Europe and performed in lecture-recitals in many countries. She has twice been selected Counselor of the American Folklore Society and is a charter member of the Canadian Folk Music Society.

The national anti-litter organization got an affirmative answer and at the same time found that the young scholars have well-defined litter habits.

The most littered spots at school, the survey showed, are playgrounds, washrooms, and sidewalks. Lunchrooms and locker rooms are runners up.

High on the list of litter items were scratch paper, candy and chewing gum wrappers, fruits, and peels, and paper tissues. The survey also showed that schools with good anti-litter programs don't have a serious litter problem.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Concerning rubber floor mats in automobiles:

I used to have them, too, and thought they were fine but one day I sent my car to the most expensive shop for routine work and it came back minus floor mats.

I called the mechanic and asked him where my new rubber floor mats were. He said he threw them away . . .

He told me they held moisture underneath and caused more rust damage to the underneath part of a car than anything! It does stand to reason.

So I went to a carpet house and bought two small pieces of carpeting which cost a dollar apiece and put them on the floor of the car. They are really nicer than rubber and are vacuumed every time I have my car washed. —Pearl Marvin

Don't laugh, folks, but this does stand to reason, doesn't it?

The last two cars we had we drove ten years. Both rusted out under the floorboard. And both had rubber mats. Rubber is non-porous and I can see why condensation would accumulate underneath it and rust out all metal.

Once when I was driving and had to slam on the brake in an emergency, the heel of my shoe went through the floorboard!

Just to test yours, pull back the mat from the floor of your car and see if it is rusted underneath. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Our five-year-old daughter is handicapped, and has the use of only one arm. I save hints and keep them in a file for her use in years to come.

Here is one of our favorites:

For cutting vegetables, a large board with one long, rust-proof nail driven up through the bottom.

Place head of cabbage, lettuce, carrot, or whatever . . . Y ON NAIL AND CUT!

tuce, carrot, or whatever . . . firmly on nail and cut!

I use one myself and it helps keep round vegetables from rolling around and prevents cut fingers.

Not only have I saved much of my own skin, but our daughter likes to try it out already and thinks it to be a very normal part of my kitchen helpers. —Carol Di Marshall

Dear Heloise:

Instead of writing notes for the milk man (and risk their blowing away) I stick a piece of adhesive tape on one bottle and write on the tape the amount of milk I want.

It works every time. — M. F.

Dear Heloise:

Don't discard those rusty TV trays . . . the edge is usually still all right, so sand the center of the trays, then cover them with adhesive-backed paper.

The trays may be prettier than when they were new.

Mrs. Wise Entertains Heart Sunday Chairmen

Mrs. William H. Wise, Heart Sunday Chairman for 1965, invited all area chairmen to a coffee at her home, 2428 San Carlos Dr., on Wednesday, March 10. In thanking the key workers for their efforts, Mrs. Wise announced that this has been the largest contribution ever raised in El Paso County on Heart Sunday.

"The total gift now stands at $9,100.00 and more money comes in daily from the envelopes the workers left when people were away," she said.

A breakdown of figures, still incomplete, showed that the Broadmoor-Skyway area under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marvin Tjostem netted $1,137.01. This figure does not represent any advanced or special gifts which were solicited separately.

Mrs. Robert Snow, chairman of West Colorado Springs reported a total of $475.70. The Northwest area was headed by Mrs. Forrest Wright and a total of $486.96 was collected there. The Cragmor area brought in $550.75 under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sanford Jenks.

Mrs. James Gable was in charge of the Templeton Gap area and was responsible for raising $1,058.00. An area from Constitution to Cache La Poudre produced $1,606.50 under the leadership of Mrs. Eunice Millwright. Mrs. Alyce Hirsch was area chairman for a southeast section near Prospect Lake and collected $634.11. Mrs. Harry Hoth was responsible for the area east of Union from Constitution to Uintah and added $619.29 from the section. Nob Hill was headed by Mrs. James F. Prather who returned $343.13 and Mrs. Sam Thornton was chairman for Pikes Peak Park and received contributions of $364.57.

Reports from outlying areas are still incomplete. Mrs. Wise said, but thus far Security has sent $460.91, where Mrs. Donald W. Emrich and Mrs. Carl Roberts were co-chairmen. Fountain, under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Benatti and Mrs. Leo Bixenman, contributed $62.38. Calhan sent $83.40 and was organized by Mrs. A. L. Pieper. The Ute Pass area was covered by Mrs. Bill Osborne and contributed $56.96. Mrs. Dorothy Leek of the Manitou High School organized a girl's club of the school to solicit and collected $107.70. The community of Wigwam was covered by Mrs. Raymond Masters who turned in $21.00. Falcon Estates sent contributions of $92.00. Gifts, totaling several hundred dollars, have been received without designated areas to determine credit.

Gen. Ben W. Chidlaw, chairman of the Heart Fund, congratulated the women for their superb efforts. "The organization and cooperation of all the women working on Heart Sunday was outstanding," he said.

The money collected during the campaign will go for further research, he added and spoke of the remarkable progress that has been made in the recent past because of contributions freely given for the study of cardio-vascular diseases.

Mrs. Wise suggested that each area chairman report the names of key workers who might be called upon for future campaigns. She also requested comments that would strengthen the organization.

"This is the way to build for better campaigns in the future," she said.

Opening lead: Deuce of Diamonds

Genius and insanity, it has many times been said, are blood relations. I have evidence to support the theory that inspiration and ignorance are next of kin. Part of my evidence is submitted today.

No, gentle reader, I have not changed my bidding style. The diagram above provides the exact sequence of calls when I saw the hand played. Mr. South found this system very effective in auction days and he has seen no reason to change his methods with the passing of the years.

West elected to lead dummy's suit and the two of diamonds came out briskly. Dummy played low and East went into a prolonged huddle during which West showed manifest symptoms of annoyance. It was apparent to him that the only card that would present his partner with a problem was the king and he was naturally rooting inwardly for East to win the trick.

After extensive fumbling, the nine of diamonds came forth to be taken by declarer's ten. This was almost too much for West, who violated any number of tenets by expressing his opinion of his partner then and there. Decorum was reestablished and play continued. Try as he would, declarer was unable to take more than eight tricks.

The diamond suit could never be brought in for, while South had two entries in dummy to establish the suit, he lacked the third which was required to cash it. Had East gone up with the king at trick one, the dummy's suit could have been established in one more lead and the contract easily fulfilled.

As a matter of technique, I think East's play was correct. South is marked with one diamond. If it is the ace, the king play cannot be fruitful. If it is a low card, the nine will win and, if it is the ten, nothing will be lost, since there is no fear of blocking partner's diamonds.

After the hand was played, I mused at what might have happened had the final contract been six clubs. When declarer led a low diamond off dummy, I wonder if East would have played the king second hand? That's what it would have taken to defeat the contract. You

Pecan Pie Has New Orleans Origin

By GAYNOR MADDON

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Calorie-conscious and budget-minded gourmets will welcome this mock pecan pie recipe. Maybe it doesn't taste exactly like the pecan pies you get in New Orleans but it is remarkable.

I may doubt it, but I have a feeling that he would have. Perhaps he couldn't give you the reason as in the play of the nine of diamonds, but I just have a hunch he would have come up with the ace.

ably similar to the genuine product.

The oats give it the traditional chewiness and contribute to the nutty flavor; they also keep costs down. It is very easy to make from these tested directions.

If you are not worried about calories, then dress up the pie with dollops of sweetened whipped cream.

Mock Pecan Pie
 (Makes one 9-inch pie)
 3 eggs
 3/4 cup dark corn syrup melted
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 cup quick rolled oats, un-

cooked

1-3 cup coarsely chopped pecans

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees). Beat eggs until foamy. Add corn syrup, sugar, salt and butter. Stir in oats and nutmeats. Pour into pie shell. Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) 45 to 50 minutes or until center of pie is firm. Cool.

Club Will Avoid Mary's Little Lamb

LAWSON, Mo. (AP) — It may be all right for Mary to have a little lamb, but the members of the Lawson Rotary Club are avoiding one as if it were the plague.

And the club has perfect attendance the last seven weeks because of it.

In January, club president Charlie Black, a former University of Kansas basketball star, told members that the first one missing a meeting would receive a little lamb to care for until some other member misses.

Idaho's potato crop this year has been valued at an estimated $68 million.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of olay is recommended by beauty care consultants who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. Your druggist will help you to obtain a supply for your personal needs.

Household Hints

United Press International
 Loosen bedding from underneath the mattress before taking it off the bed. This procedure protects against ripping.

To tell one sheet size from another, sew a bit of colored tape, one color for each size, on sheets.

Fur coats warrant good care. They should be kept away from light and heat to protect against fading or drying.

Simmer, don't boil, if your aim is a hard-cooked egg. Simmering promotes a firm, tender white with a smooth yolk. Rapid boiling means a mealy yolk and a tough white.

Short on drying space? Lay a plastic tablecloth on a bed or floor, cover it with a towel and then spread knitwear to dry.

Ordinary clip-type clothespins make good desk clips. Just glue letters to clothespins to spell out "bills," "letters" or whatever, then spray with paint.

Vegetables are tasty topped with grated cheese or mixed with butter sauces, sauteed mushrooms or sour cream.

Keep brownie mix on the shelf, ice cream in the freezer, and you've got the makings for brownie a la mode handy.

For a different taste, cook green beans until tender, saute onions in butter, then lightly brown beans with onions.

Raw, cut apples, darken on contact with air, so they need a protective coating. When preparing salads, mix apples with fruit juice before adding other ingredients — or, add salad dressing immediately to provide a coating.

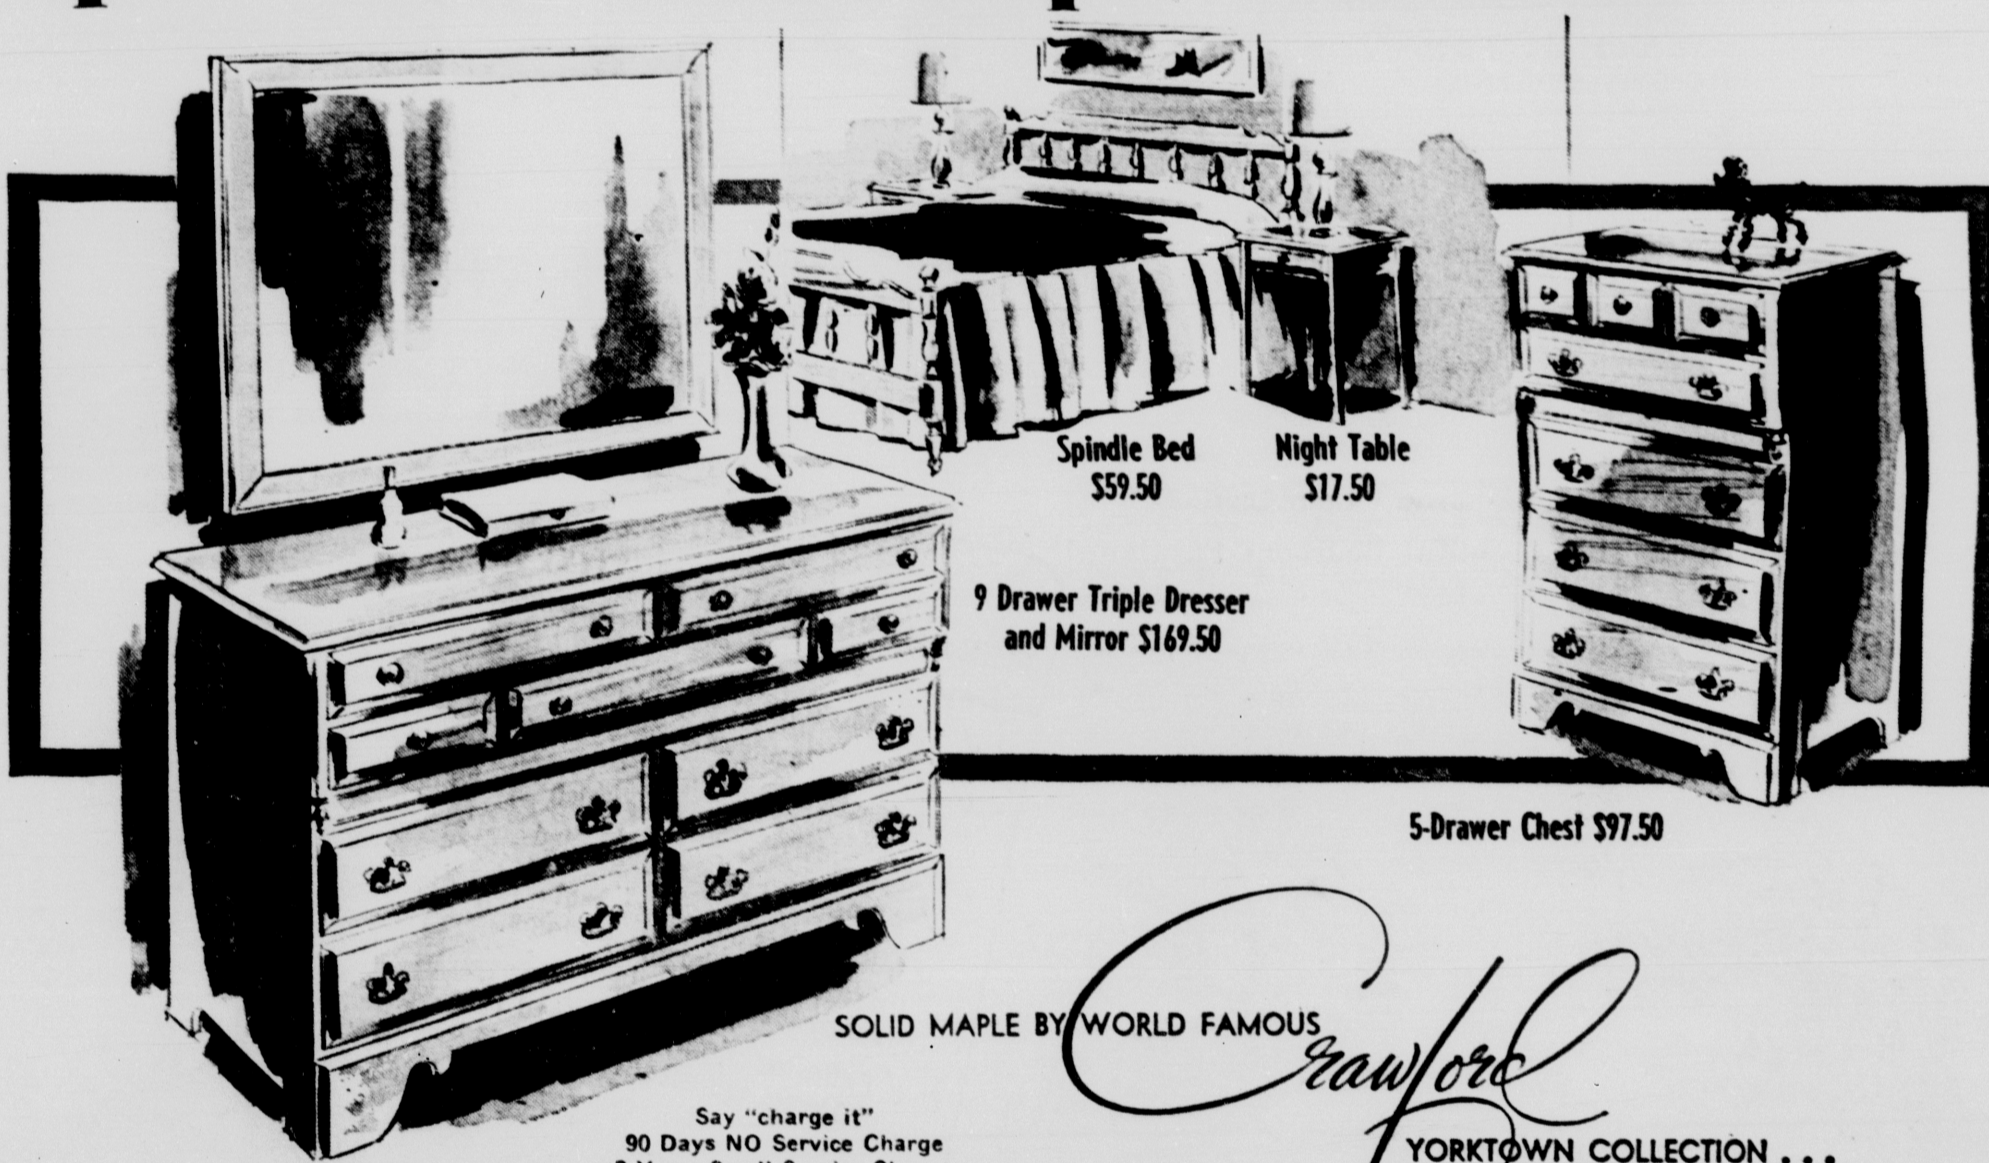

Demonstration Held By Oslo Students

OSLO, Norway (AP) — An anti-American demonstration staged Thursday night at the U.S. Embassy by Communists and Socialists was countered by about 600 students shouting "Long Live Johnson!" and "Down with Mao!"

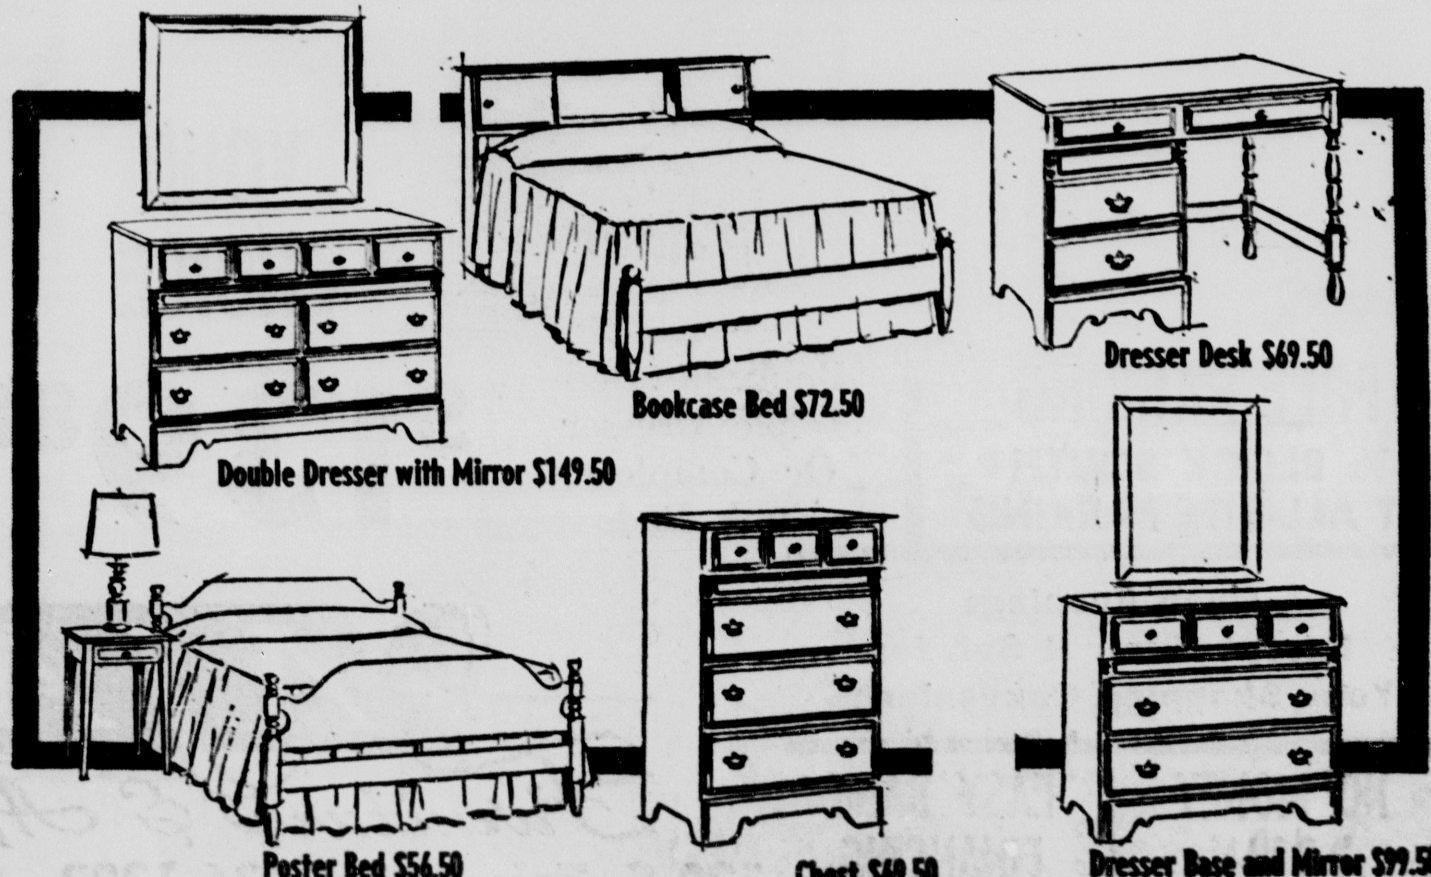

The students marched the half mile from the University of Oslo to the embassy and shouted down the Reds, who numbered about 600 also. The leftists carried flaming torches and signs saying "Peace, not bombs in Viet Nam."

The leftists handed a letter to the embassy and then dispersed as the other group sang. "For he's a jolly good fellow" referring to President Johnson.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Talk to Him

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for 18 years and now I find myself hurt and disappointed.

A girl where my husband works gave him a shirt for Valentine's Day because she thought he was a "nice guy." He said he was surprised. Since then she told him that her husband had left her. Also that all men were rats and in time he would cheat on his wife, too.

Now my husband bought HER a present for her birthday because she's a "nice girl" and he feels sorry for her. I told him he was a married man and had no business buying her a present and if he loved me he wouldn't give it to her. Well, he gave it to her anyway.

Should I get the girl's phone number and call her up and tell her she's making trouble? Sign me, —"HURT"

DEAR HURT: Don't call her. She'd only go crying to your husband. His "protective" instincts would be aroused and it would be them against you. What you need is a better line of communication with your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter just married a man with two children. He supposedly got his divorce in New York State. He claims that he does not have to support his children. We think that is very unusual, don't you? We have reason to believe that this man is not divorced. We consulted the sheriff in our county and he wasn't able to tell us how we could go about finding out if this man was divorced or not. Can you give us a clue as to how we can get this information? It's very important.

DEAR PARENTS: Consult a lawyer. If a divorce exists, it will not be difficult to prove.

DEAR ABBY: I invited my friends over for potluck lunch and what I hoped would be an enjoyable afternoon as I had planned games and entertainment for them.

To my surprise, after the lunch, one woman took out her knitting, and another woman had her needlework. (I didn't ask anyone to bring their work as I had other plans.) I was just sick, and didn't know what to do, so I just kept still. It spoiled everything for the rest of the guests. Do you think I should have told them at the beginning that I didn't think they should sit and do their work at a party? Or was I right in letting them do as they pleased?—DIS-APPOINTED IN PEOPLE

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: You should have gone ahead with the games and entertainment. My guess is that the knitting and needlework would have gone back in the bags.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, in nurses' training, and have just become engaged to a fine young man who is a senior in college. We've gone together for three years. We plan to get married as soon as Stuart graduates in June. My problem is my mother. She wants me to have a big church wedding with a white gown and veil, bridesmaids and ushers and the whole bit. Stu and I don't want any big splash- es. All we want is a simple ceremony, performed by our pastor in the small chapel of our church. I am the only girl in my family (I have four brothers), and Mother says I "owe" it to her and Dad to have a big church wedding. I think it is a foolish waste of money and, besides, my father doesn't have that much. I hate to disappoint my mother, Abby, but do you think I should be made to have a big church wedding just because she wants to put on a big show for the relatives? — NO BIG SPLASH

DEAR NO: No. Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Wildcats Meet Top-Ranked Arvada After Thrilling Win Over Hinkley

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer
DENVER — Ice-veined Pueblo Central meets Arvada's Redskins, the state's top-ranked team, in the semi-final round of the AAA State High School Basketball Tournament here tonight after the South Central League champions overcame a record-smashing 40 point performance by Aurora Hinkley's Mike Davis to post a 68-67 overtime decision in Thursday night's opening round.

Central and Arvada cap the second night activities at the Denver Coliseum with their 9:30 date. East Denver's defending champions will meet tourney veteran Greeley, in the other

AFA Annual Boxing Tourney Set Tonight

A jam-packed Cadet Gymnasium is expected tonight for the annual Wing Open Boxing Championships at the Air Force Academy. The event is always one of the top attractions of the year, and six bouts should supply an evening full of excitement.

The boxing finals will begin at 8 p.m. in the east gym, and the public is welcome free of charge. With a big turnout from the Cadets anticipated, spectators are urged to arrive early to obtain good seats.

The half-dozen fights will run from the 135-pound division through heavyweight, with no returning champions trying to retain titles. The 12 Cadets participating in the finals are the survivors of 3 weeks of elimination fights in the AFA's intramural league.

The Championships are open to any Cadet, regardless of class, and the quality of boxing compares favorably with the area of Golden Gloves competition. All are amateurs, of course.

Col. E. A. Rafalko, AFA director of athletics, in announcing the bouts said, "We are extremely proud of our intramural program, and the boxing finals clearly demonstrate the many fine attributes of competition spirit of sportsmanship which are vital to our program."

"I'm sure that the fans seeing these fights will be pleased as they represent amateur sport at its best," Rafalko said.

Acting as referee tonight for all the fights will be Ray Keech, one of the state's top officials of the ring. Also on hand will be Eddie Bohn, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, and judges will be George Manley of Denver, and Ben Langelila and Vern Brook of Colorado Springs.

The pairings are as follows:
135 pounds — Jack Duffy, Portland, Me., vs. Dale Fowler, Aliant, Okla.
145 pounds — Mike Heenan, Philadelphia, Pa., vs. Frank Andrews, Pierson Station, Ill.
155 pounds — Frank Moore, Detroit Mich., vs. Jeff Egge, San Antonio, Tex.
165 pounds — Gary Vasek, Leigh, Neb., vs. Norm State, Los Angeles, Calif.
175 pounds — Bob Barnum, Kerhonkson, N.Y., vs. Skip Cox, Fenton, Mo.
Heavyweight — Bob Hinson, Corpus Christi, Tex., vs. John Barhaugh, Casper Wyo.

Andrews won a title in the 1963 bouts, but then lost to Egge in the finals last year. They are both entered this year, but Egge has moved up into the 155 pound class, while Andrews has remained at 145 pounds.

Each bout will be three rounds or less.

Sanders Still Leads on Pro Golf Tour

MIAMI (AP)—"I didn't have the confidence in my play that I've had in the last few days," Doug Sanders said Thursday after a record-shattering round over the Doral Country Club's long, tough golf course.

He must have been kidding, because when he shot the seven-under-par 65 in the opening round of the $70,000 Doral Invitational, Sanders did something that few golfers have done in the last couple of years.

He not only broke a two-year victory drought last week at Pensacola, and did it under the pressure of a sudden death playoff with Jack Nicklaus, but he came back in his next tournament with a magnificent, front-running first round performance.

Despite his great round, Sanders still had his work cut out for him.

Jack McGowan and George Knudson were only two strokes back and Pete Cooper, Bruce Devlin, Dave Marr, Charley Sifford, Chick Harbert and Bob Shave trailed by three.

Nicklaus had a 70, and Gary Player was even further away at 71.

Frequently, a golfer winning a tournament has faltered so badly that he failed to make the cut the next time out.

Not since last summer, when Tony Lema captured the Thunderbird and Buick Opens, has a golfer scored back-to-back victories, and Lema was the only one who did it in 1964.

But even Lema didn't shake off the tension of the first win and go ahead in the first round of the second tournament. He started out in third place and had to scramble to the top over the four-day haul.

So Sanders, who broke a Doral record of 66 set by Sam Snead and since tied by two others, seems off and running on a big year.

Jefferson Jam

What should have been a quiet case of combined parental and local administrative discipline in a Denver high school has suddenly turned into a question of authority over youngsters everywhere and has cast a shadow of doubt over the principles of schoolboy athletics in general.

This is in reference to the recent hassle between a coach, 8 boys, a parent and the decision of the Denver superintendent of schools to over-rule a regulation of training.

It all started last November at the end of the football season when a few of the players on the Thomas Jefferson squad decided a celebration was in order in the form of a small beer drinking bout.

The incident was made known, and it should have ended right there. The players themselves had passed the resolution that training would continue throughout the school year for any athletes. It was clearly cut that those involved should no longer be eligible for any school team.

But when the time came for the beginning of baseball practice, one coach with a rugged reputation for discipline and teams to match ordered that one of the boys who had tipped the bottle would not be welcome on his squad this spring.

In a reaction too typical of a few parents, the boy's father came howling of prejudice. He claimed that since other coaches had allowed his boy's drinking buddies to participate in winter-time sports, the same should go for his lad.

The school's principal passed the case on to the superintendent, and Dr. Kenneth E. Oberholzer yielded to pressure of the condoning parent by saying that the boy in question should play baseball. Rather than go back on what he felt was a life-long axiom, Coach Mike Willett resigned. The group of coaches throughout the Denver area have slapped a boycott on taking over the job.

In the meantime, the boy has been thoroughly embarrassed with his name being dragged through black headlines. Thomas Jefferson is still without a coach. Oberholzer has made himself look ridiculous with his ruling. And the coaches who allowed the others to participate in winter sports can hardly be admired for not taking the same action as Willett.

The latest action from Oberholzer's office was a so-called probation for all those in the post-football "celebration." Although still insisting they should be able to play in spring sports, they aren't allowed to display athletic awards or school jackets until classes are dismissed in June.

However, also in the "white paper" from the superintendent's desk was the edict that coaches should have disciplinary authority — but the final responsibility of players' eligibility rests with the principal and superintendent of schools.

In other words, any parent whose boy has been trimmed from a squad for breaking a training rule or disregarding a coach's instructions can come crying to the super's quarters with the old dodge of "discrimination." With this precedent, nearly all authority is lost.

This incident certainly should have ended the minute it was made known. But the weak-kneed principal obviously could not handle the situation. As soon as the others were allowed to participate, trouble was on its way.

There are reasons for all rules of training and team membership. If the boys are unable to abide by these regulations then they have no place on any squad.

The obvious is the health of the individual. Anyone, and especially teenage boys, can't be expected to perform in a physical sport without stringent obedience to diet, rest & cleanliness. A laxness of attitude not only hurts the individual but the entire squad.

Also, anyone involved in athletics is setting an example for all surrounding students to follow. He is on a sort of pedestal and every action observed. If out of line one inch, it is magnified a yard by any fame from the playing field.

If the boys can't live by the rules, there is little to be gained from athletics. With the rules, there are lessons to be learned that can be found nowhere else.

Certainly, there are sacrifices of time and effort. The rewards, however, more than make up for these. Abstinence from a beer drinking party is one of the lesser of these sacrifices.

There are undoubtedly innumerable cases in which others have broken rules and gotten by with it. Coaches can hardly act as policemen for the actions of all their charges. But those who think they are so cute by breaking regulations are merely hurting themselves and their teammates.

In my opinion, the only one in the right in this dirty situation in Denver was the coach. There is no excuse for the boys, the parents were the ones appealing to prejudice for they wanted special allowance for their boys, and both the principal and superintendent were showing a streak of yellow backbone by not backing their staff and the student-written rules.

If it can happen one place, it can in another. But let's hope not.

Remember, the coaches are also in on this sacrifice act. Sure, they are paid — but on an hourly basis at about 12 cents per. The only thing that keeps them going is a solid dedication to what they believe in and the thesis they are helping the youth of the country.

Take away the principles of this dedication and there is nothing left. That's why Mike Willett hung up his spikes after some two decades of guiding boys to a better way of life in Denver.

Tiger, Aiming for Rematch, Takes on Argentina's Rivero

NEW YORK (AP) — Aging Dick Tiger, still determined to get a shot at the middleweight title he lost to Joey Giardello, is a 3-1 favorite to whip roly-poly Rocky Rivero of Argentina in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Teddy Brenner, the Garden's matchmaker, said positively "Tiger will get a shot at Giardello if he wins. Giardello told me he wants it and we have a spot for it in May."

Tiger, however, said "all I've heard so far are rumors. I want the title fight most of all and I hope to clinch it by defeating Rivero."

The Nigerian lost the 160-pound division crown to Giardello on a 15-round decision at Atlantic City Dec. 7, 1963.

Rivero and Tiger contracted to fight at 169 pounds, give or take a pound. The paunchy, 28-year-old Argentine has been working hard all week to pare down from 178 pounds.

There have been reports that the 35-year-old Tiger also has been having weight problems, and that he would quit if he lost.

"That's not so," Tiger said. "I'm all right on the weight. I'm still a middleweight."

"Win or lose I don't intend to retire yet. I have no other business. I still hope to fight two or three more years, especially if I win back the title."

Tiger, ranked No. 2 contender behind New York's Joey Archer, has a 49-14-3 record, including 23 knockouts. Rivero's record is 41-12-1, including 36 knockouts.

Russian, Czech Ice Slated for Showdown

TAMPERE, Finland (AP) — The battle after knocking off Russia and Czechoslovakia, the only two unbeaten teams, probably will decide the World Amateur Hockey Championship Saturday.

The two Iron Curtain powers had the day off today to rest for the battle after knocking off Russia and Czechoslovakia Thursday.

Canada and the United States tied the Russians 2-2 in a bruising penalty-marred contest and the Czechs shocked Canada 5-0.

In today's two games in the championship round, the Yanks face Finland after Norway meets the East Germans. The Americans and Norwegians are scheduled to meet Sunday, the final day.

"I don't think we shall beat the Finns," said Coach Ken Yackel of St. Paul, Minn. "Before we arrived here I thought Finland was one of the teams we might beat," said Yackel, "but the Finns have improved tremendously and they are playing very well in this championship."

The smooth-skating, precision-passing Russians piled up a 7-0 lead over the Americans in the first two periods.

Paul Coppo of Green Bay, Wis., broke the ice in the third period on a pass from Tim Taylor of Waterloo, Iowa. The Russians fired two more goals before Larry Johnson of Minneapolis scored the final.

Lakers Can Clinch NBA Title Tonite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Los Angeles can clinch the title in the National Basketball Association's Western Division tonight while the Boston Celtics, who already have hold of the Eastern crown, can set a record for victories in a season.

The Lakers assured themselves of at least a tie by defeating Baltimore 121-116 in overtime Thursday night. The Celtics tied their own record of 60 victories with a 112-100 victory over Detroit. St. Louis kept its Western hopes alive, edging San Francisco 101-99.

Los Angeles, which meets San Francisco tonight, outlasted the Bullets behind the scoring of Jerry West. The Lakers' ace struck for 14 straight points, starting with three minutes left in regulation time.

Until West got started, the Bullets led 102-100. Regulation time ended with the teams tied at 107. West, held to three points in the first half, erupted for 35 the rest of the way and finished with 38.

6,000 Marines Being Sent To Okinawa

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — A 6,000-man Marine brigade boarded ships Wednesday night, reportedly bound for Okinawa to replace 3,500 Marines sent to South Viet Nam early this week.

"The Marines are moving," said a spokesman for Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, Pacific military commander. There was no other official comment in Hawaii on the troop movement.

The 1st Marine Brigade members were moved from Hawaii Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station to Pearl Harbor by truck convoy last month.

Original plans were for the Marines to take part in Operation Silver Lance, the military training maneuver off the California Coast.

But the first units of the brigade boarded ships Wednesday night for Okinawa, not California. About 1,000 brigade members are staying behind in Hawaii.

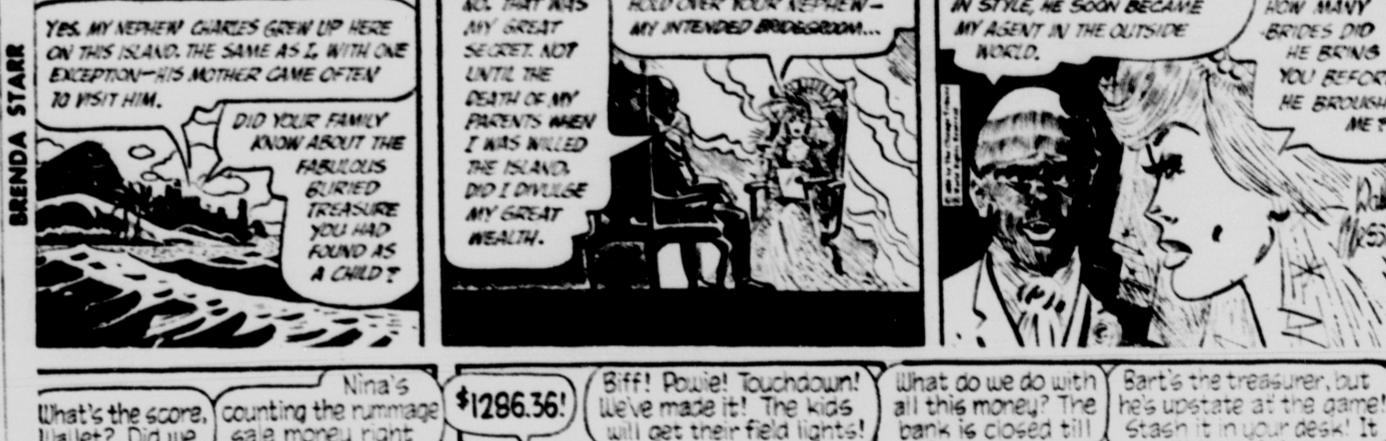

A report from Washington said the brigade includes helicopter units also bound for Okinawa, the main American military staging area in the Far Pacific.

It was not known whether the Hawaii brigade would send a battalion to reinforce the Navy's 7th Fleet in the Pacific. The fleet lost its amphibious battalion when its men were ordered to Viet Nam with the other 3rd Marine Division troops that landed at Da Nang.

A Marine landing battalion is customarily attached to the 7th Fleet for quick action in emergencies.

The Hawaii brigade is reportedly carrying heavy gear — howitzers, mortars and tanks — to Okinawa. But Washington sources reported that the brigade's jet fighter planes would probably be left behind in Hawaii.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

First Things First

In a letter in our Open Par-liament section Mrs. Louisa Stolee, who formerly taught school in Colorado and later in California, expresses amazement that the students' wishes are secondary to those of the ad-ministration.

She says the primary purpose of schools is to educate kids. But this is an old fashioned idea, carried over from the time when schools were community projects and big government had not entered the picture. Before pro-gressive education was intro-duced by the socialists and the Welfare Expansion

The local war on poverty, which has been waged, year in, year out, since the 1930s, carries on apace. The El Paso County Welfare offices are currently undergoing expansion in office space, in personnel and in facilities.

More space is being provided in the reception and assembly rooms and in other sections of the Welfare Department located on the fifth floor of the County Office Building.

It is good to know that "Welfare" is doing so well in the local war on poverty. The department has hired three new workers and applications for eight or nine others are being considered. This should solve the personal poverty war for those applicants.

The best place to be in the welfare business is in the offices, the pay is better. Admit-tedly, these welfare recipients must "work" for their money whereas the "cases" they dig up do not have to work for their handouts. There is also an added prestige to being on the pay-roll end of the business over being on the receiving end. But it all amounts to the same thing — welfare for all concerned.

Anybody who lives off the taxpayers, from the president down, is on welfare. Much of their work is unnecessary and what is necessary could be done better, more efficiently and cheaper by private enterprise. And the pay would be even better for those who were really needed.

Charity, enforced by the tax gun, ceases to be charity and becomes robbery. And the recipients of such largess, being told by the "case workers" that they are "entitled" to the hard earned wages of the producers, do not consider it as charity and are grateful to no one for their support. They become fat and indolent and cease to hope for anything but the next welfare check, which in most cases is substantial enough so they can own better TV sets and better cars than many of the workers who are supporting them.

The war on poverty will never be won so long as people are encouraged to remain on the relief rolls. And our moral climate will never improve so long the welfare board.

Fake Problem Disrupts Trade

By OSCAR COOLEY

At a time when it is vital that the nations of the free West stand together against Communism, the two leaders, United States and Great Britain, are making economic w a r. The battles in this war are not spectacular but in the long run may hurt the average American as much as the shooting in Viet Nam.

When the Labor Party came to power in Great Britain last fall, it slapped a 15 per cent "surcharge," or tariff increase, on the bulk of Britain's imports. This has already cut deeply into the sales of American firms to British firms. It has also made it expensive for American firms to ship parts to their branch factories in Britain.

Of course the tax does not apply to U.S. products alone. Britain had already agreed with its six fellow countries of the European Free Trade Association that they would mutually abolish their tariffs. The British 15 per cent surcharge reverses this agreement. The EFTA nations are, naturally, enraged.

But even before the British did this, the United States had imposed a 15 per cent "interest equalization" tax on American investments in foreign stocks and bonds, especially those of western Europe.

Now President Johnson has fired another shot in the war on our friends by decreeing that the same 15 per cent tax shall be levied on foreign loans of one year or more made by American banks. At the same time he urged all American banks to voluntarily restrict their foreign loans and to bring back their funds as quickly as they can.

We are told that the reason for this international economic sniping is that both Britain and the United States have deficits in their balances of payments — that is, their out-payments add up to more than their in-payments. Each is trying to curb its out-payments.

But our out-payments are in-payments to Great Britain and other nations. So it is impossible for us to reduce our out-payments without reducing their in-payments. Hence, the war.

Some of the things that bring in-payments to the United States are exports of goods, sale of services such as shipping, insurance and banking of foreigners, expenditures of foreign travelers in the United States sales of U.S. stocks and bonds to foreigners, and dividends, interest, and repayment of principal on foreign stocks and bonds held by Americans. Outpayments are caused by the opposites of these things, that is, by imports and the like. Expenditures of U.S. armed forces abroad and foreign aid gifts and loans are major out-payments of the U.S. and hence important causes of our balance-of-payments deficit.

According to the "Wall Street Journal," American business men are reacting somewhat acidly to Mr. Johnson's curbs on foreign investment. "Let the government curb its own foreign spending," one said. He noted that defense and foreign aid outlays are the biggest cause of the unbalance of payments. On the same point, David Mitchell, vice president of Parke, Davis and Company, is quoted as saying: "They're trying to tell business what it shouldn't do when they are afraid to pull in their own horns."

Any restriction on foreign investment "would be very short-sighted," said Roy Chapin of American Motors. He was referring to the fact that investments paid out soon cause dividends to be paid in. Dividend in-payments on foreign investments once paid out now bring billions in yearly. Foreign investment is indeed a goose that lays golden eggs. Then why kill it?

Answer this and you will also answer why Britain is cutting off imports of goods which her people want and are willing to pay for. Both are being done to "balance the payments."

This has become a veritable fetish among western countries. That is not a real problem but a fake, not a natural, economic problem but a hatched-up, political one, can readily be seen if for countries one substitutes states, counties or other areas. What about the "balance-of-payments problem" of the state of Ohio, for example? Obviously, it has none.

People of Ohio make payments to people in other states, and people of other states make payments to people in Ohio, daily. No one worries about balancing the in-payments against the out-payments.

The mutually helpful economic relations between nations are being disrupted by politicians who are trying to solve problems of their own creation.

VISITING TEACHER

To the Editor:

I am a visitor in your city, and after reading how the District 11 board of education arrives at decisions, I am glad I do not reside here. Personal convenience and preferences of pupils are recognized, but must obviously become secondary considerations, both for the present and future they announced. What a tragedy. Pupils, their preference and convenience included, should be the PRIME consideration.

Schools costing in the millions of dollars, filled with lavish (and perhaps unnecessary) equipment are of little import if the feelings of those who attend are considered only secondary. As a parent, I would resent this implication if my children were involved.

As a former teacher, having taught in Colorado for several years, and more recently in California, I am aware (or thought I was) of the duties and policies of a board of education. I do not recall they had the power of dictatorship. These few civic-minded individuals are elected for the sole purpose of doing what is best for the majority education-wise, with the welfare of the children being their first consideration. Obviously, this does not apply here.

It would seem to me that the majority of the citizens in Colorado Springs have school-age children, and pay taxes for the support, and construction, of schools. Yet these same people not only allow a small nucleus to announce that their children's happiness and welfare is secondary, but accept this announcement as a matter of course. This is most unfortunate. Accepting this ultimatum of the board of education at this point, will only open the door for a loss of other considerations in the future.

Once the common man fails to stand up and be heard, to register his protests and feelings, he has only made the way easier for those who desire to silence his voice entirely so only THEY can be heard!

Public education is one of our valued freedoms, but it will remain free only so long as it is defended. Pupils being forced to transfer, and their preferences ignored makes this freedom a little more questionable.

As Aristotle wrote, and it is applicable, "All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth." A beautifully equipped school building cannot teach the pupils within its environs the basic principles of justice, freedom and democracy; or the fine qualities of respect and consideration. These must be taught the children, not only by precept, but by example. The board of education has erred in setting this example.

NATIONAL INTEREST

To the Editor:

In the March 2nd edition of the Gazette Telegraph appeared a long article by one Colonel Robert Ploger, concerning our financial system.

He stated that "national defense," the interest on the national debt was the largest single item in the budget.

He then proceeded to itemize to whom this interest is paid as follows: commercial banks get $64 million; U.S. agencies $58 million; savings bonds, $48 million; federal reserve banks, $34 million; foreign investors, $16 million; ALL OTHERS $90 million.

This is a grand total of $310 million.

Well now, we can all relax! With millions of such competent like the good colonel in the employ of our government (YOUR government, to be more precise) our future is bound to be rosy and prosperous!

The reason why slob like me are taxed to pay salaries like his is because when I multiply 4 per cent X $324 BILLION (our national debt ceiling) I get $12.96 BILLION, or $12.96 million.

Just like that, the good colonel saved us over $12 billion, and in the same way LBJ will no doubt save us billions more.

JOHN ALLEN

Editor's note: Reader Allen is right. The interest on the national debt runs to over $12 billion annually.

MARCH OF DIMES

To the Editor:

The March of Dimes campaign is being completed and it is at this time in the drive that we pause to think of all the wonderful people who have helped us. Tops on the list is the Gazette Telegraph for all of the wonderful cooperation in publicizing our campaign.

We are ever mindful of the value of this publicity. Only through the media of the newspaper can we let the folks know about the new program of the March of Dimes on birth defects. By working together we can hasten the day when scientists can conquer birth defects.

We would also like to thank the people of the community for their generous response both in terms of service and financial aid to our campaign.

In behalf of the people in our community who are aided by these funds, again we say many, many thanks.

DICK TO MAKE 'DIVORCE', AMERICAN STYLE

NEW YORK — Dick Van Dyke read Norman Lear's script of "Divorce, American Style," and agreed to do the picture for Columbia. "The title is misleading," he told me. "It sounds like a take-off on all those Italian pictures, but it's not a comedy. There's humor, but it's a real story about divorce and what it does to the people involved. It has you rooting for the couple to get back together which they do." Dick won't do the picture for Norman and Bud Yorkin until 1966, because this year on his series' vacation he'll star in "Robin Crusoe" for Walt Disney.

Lucille Ball phoned me at the Waldorf with sad news of the death of her friend, Prince Mike Wasczynski, an extraordinary man who spent eight years in Siberia and vowed if he ever got out he'd live to the hilt. He did. Worked as assistant to Sam Bronston in Madrid and was just forming a partnership with Dir. Jean Negulesco to make pictures in Spain. Lucy met him when he assisted Desi Arnaz on the TV show they did in Spain. When Mike came to Hollywood, we took him to Vegas.

After doing a wonderful job for crippled children in Washington, D. C., St. Louis, and Austin, Tex., Lucy spent day with Vivian Vance in Connecticut trying to persuade her to do another year of TV in the same old format; then she took off for Miami Beach where she and Gary Morton expect to rest undisturbed in a private home loaned them by a friend. I told her the fans would be out in droves to see what kind of sun-bonnet she was wearing.

On the plane east I read "Stage-Struck," Maurice Zolotow's enchanting book about the love, friendships, and theater of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

Also started "Aly," the story of Aly Khan. His son, Karim, now the Aga Khan, never cared much for horses, but in his father's memory, he dug up a guest list for the party Aly always gave after the Grand Prix in Paris, and repeated the ball last year.

First night in New York dined at Luchow's where Craig Stevens and Alexis Smith told me they're longing to get back to their little old home in California. After two years in London and New York, Craig says he'd like to explore some of those theaters in the round, and Alexis would like to go with him. Also there were Anita Louise and her husband, Henry Berger.

Friends of Gladys Swarthout and Frank Chapman will be interested to know they're now living in a Fifth avenue apartment.

Flowers from Mary Martin with the note: "Spring has come and wouldn't you know we'd be singing about spring in Brooklyn yet. I'm having such joy with my director, Gower Champion, on our TV spec, don't ever want it to end."

Driving in from the airport.
